Better break for taxpayers

After all the upset and indignation over the past few weeks, when counties and regions were setting their budgets and tax levies for other-than-education costs for the current year, it now looks as if the whole assessment strata is going to have to be revised.

The Ontario Ministry of Intergovernmental Affairs has notified all heads of council of revision to the provincial grant program which will pass on an additional $8.5 million to municipalities this year, and will completely offset any potential tax increases which could be caused by the new assessment equalization factors introduced last year.

Before the new assessment equalization factors were introduced, some municipalities were underassessed and were paying less than their fair share of county and regional taxes. To help offset the big tax jump foreseen for 1980 in those municipalities which had been underassessed, the Provincial Government put a 5% ceiling on a municipality's apportionment increase and the counties and regions set their levies on individual municipalities, based on this 5% ceiling.

Now the ceiling has been lowered to zero. 'We have become aware that upper tier levy increases in general throughout the province are estimated to be significant for this year,' Ontario's Minister of Governmental Affairs, Tom Wells, understated in his letter to 'all heads of council'.

'Following the example of the Ministry of Education which has enriched its grant protection to limit municipal apportionment share increases due to the new factors to zero, we are offering the same program to municipalities.'

And there's some consolation for municipalities which had been paying more than their fair share of taxes. All municipalities expecting a decrease in share because of the new factors will still receive that decrease to a maximum of 5%, Mr. Wells said.

The Ministry of Education has been slow this year in announcing grants to the school boards and this has, in turn, slowed up the procedure of drawing up budgets at the local level.

For example, towns like Deseronto have known for some weeks what the county levy would be (it will change now) but have not been able to set final budgets...and mill rates...until they knew what the education levy would be.

Clerk treasurer Carman Milligan is pleased about the reduction in municipal taxes, (he estimates it will be, approximately $2,500 this year) but is concerned about getting the tax bills out in time for the July 1 tax payment date.

'It's a long process calculating the taxes after the mill rate is set and getting the notices out,' he said.

New special care unit at L & A Hospital will save critical time in patient care

Early in 1977, a committee of the medical staff at the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital was formed to review the practicality of establishing a Special Care Unit at the Hospital.

At that time, there was no facility to monitor a patient brought in with a heart attack and the patient had to be transferred by ambulance a 30-minute ride, at a critical time in his illness.

That's changed now. Last Wednesday, a 4-bed special care unit was officially opened at the hospital.

'It was needed to provide the better service the community needed,' said Dr. J.D. Alkenbrack, vice-president of the medical staff.

The committee, which had been set up in 1977, reported to the Board of Governors in February of 1978. It was their strong recommendation that a four-bed Special Care Unit be established to provide improved quality of care to patients admitted with acute myocardial infarction and those requiring close observation and constant nursing care as a consequence of surgery or acute illness.

The Board agreed to establish a two-bed unit by the conversion of an existing four-bed room, as a temporary measure. The board also agreed that, once medical staff and administration gained experience with the operation of the unit, a permanent location, which allowed for a possible four beds would be set up.

The original unit was equipped with two bedside cardiac monitors, ECG recorder, and defibrillator. The Hospital Auxiliary donated $10,000 for the purchase of the cardiac monitors. Lecture series for staff training were started in 1978.

In July 1979, after receiving the report from the medical staff of a full year of successful operation, the board authorized the planning to begin for a four-bed unit.

'Last year, 217 patients were admitted to the two-bed special care unit,' said Dr. D.M. Angus, director of the unit. 'They were patients with angina, acute heart attacks, cardiac failure, diabetes, strokes, drug overdose, chest pain. Thirty-three were acute heart attacks and only 6 died.'

The new four-bed unit is equipped with a monitoring panel which allows one nurse to constantly supervise the condition of each of four patients.

Dr. Angus, while conducting a tour of the new unit, referred to the monitoring panel as 'Big Brother' and himself as Dr. Strangelove, operating dials on the equipment.

To accommodate the expanded unit it was necessary to remove a wall and use both an existing four-bed room and an adjacent single room.

The Ministry of Health granted approval for construction of the unit on the strict understanding that the hospital would bear the cost of the entire project.

Park superintendent retires

BY BY TERRY SPRAGUE

More than 200 people gathered at Wellington's Community Centre Friday night to pay tribute to Robert Davison, provincial parks superintendent in Prince Edward County for 20 years. Retiring last Wednesday, April 30, the party was attended by friends, co-workers and former colleagues, many of whom travelled from distant points in the province.

Ralph Margetson, foreman at North Beach Provincial Park for 14 years said, Bob had a knack to get the best out of a man, concentrating on praise and not criticism. The accomplishments at the parks are a living memory to Bob.

I couldn't ask for a better man to work for, emphasized Art Thompson, administrative assistant and employee for 14 years.

Others giving recognition and presentations were assistant park superintendent Jim Ives, District Manager Bob Bailey, Park Supervisor Chuck

What are they putting in our water now? Sick fish?

'What will they put into our water next? Wastes from nuclear plants; lethal chemicals; acid rain, and now diseased fish ... how safe is a cup of coffee?'

That question was posed in a letter to the editor appearing in the Kingston Whig-Standard following a press announcement that Lake Ontario will be stocked this spring with 100,000 coho salmon infected with infectious pancreatic necrosis (IPN).

Why is the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources putting sick fish into our lake?

According to a report from Canadian Press, Minister of Natural Resources, James Auld, said that much soul searching was done before reaching the decision. He said a number of other agencies, especially U.S. fisheries, would be stocking the lake with large plantings of coho salmon and that he had come to the conclusion that virtually nothing would be gained by failing to plant 'our' coho salmon this year. The salmon are planted every year, to be caught by sports fishermen.

The Scanner checked with Alex Palilonis, District Biologist with the MNR office in Napanee.

He told us that IPN is only harmful to fish in the early stages of life ... that once the fish matures IPN has no harmful effects on the fish or on humans.

ARE MINDS MORE IMPORTANT THAN POT HOLES?

The Ontario School Trustees' Council, which represents 157 school boards, employing about 105,000 teachers to teach approximately 2 million children, has called on the provincial government to allot an additional $45 million to school boards this year.

Over the last four years, the Ontario government has followed a calculated policy of reducing its share of responsibility for the financing of local education, W.J. Hillier, OSTC chairman says. 'As a result, school boards have been faced with imposing ever-higher property taxes on local rate payers.'

He said the government has fallen down on its long-standing commitment, which it fulfilled until 1976, to finance an average of 60 per cent of the cost of education across the province. Government support dropped to 51.9 % in 1979, he said.

Mr. Hillier said the government's de-emphasis on meeting educational needs was evident in the fact that grants to municipalities have been growing faster than have grants to school boards 'a case of giving higher priority to pot holes than to the mind'.

According to a story on page one of today's Scanner, the Ontario Government is giving some breaks to local school tax payers.

We have no figures yet to show whether the additional help on school costs will bring the provincial government's assistance up to the committed 60 % of the total cost or not.

But, it's a step in the right direction.

Kids are more important than pot holes, and local taxpayers have been carrying too much of the load for too long.

If the Ministry of Education wants to keep on introducing new programs, new curricula and other costly projects they are going to have to pay a fair share of the additional costs.

Well, by golly, 'got my first sunburn of the season on the weekend. I've learnt not to get too boiled over the last many years, but I always gets a little singed no matter what. Way back when me and Elma was courting, she always wondered why I stayed in the shade in the

The coho salmon can pass the disease on to its young, but, he explained, coho salmon don't reproduce successfully in Lake Ontario, that's why a fresh stock is put in every spring.

Can they pass it on to other species of fish in the lake, he was asked.

'There is already an indication of this disease occurring in our native rainbow trout,' he said. 'But you don't find too many of them because, in a natural system the diseased fish would die. In the fish hatcheries they get special care to bring them to an age where they can survive.'

What about passing the disease to trout during spawning?

'The trout spawn in the spring,' he said, 'and the salmon runs up the stream to spawn in the fall. But the coho salmon doesn't reproduce successfully in the lake,' he repeated.

'And,' he added, 'the fish the U.S. puts in are contaminated too. They plant millions of coho salmon compared with our 100,000.'

He felt that because we put so much time and effort into rearing the fish in hatcheries, that it would be too bad to destroy them when the IPN is not harmful to humans.

As far as he knew, the coho salmon did not have any other diseases.

Well, there you have it folks. Anyone game for a nice, cool, long drink of water now?

summer whenever I could. She'd be bringing up real good when I was going red as a beet.

When I was younger out fishing on the bay, got some real corker burns. I always liked to sit and fish quiet like, got some real good thinking done on the end of a rod. Course, even fishing's changed now. I were talking to a friend on the weekend, real keen fisherman, not only has a rod, reel and a big box of tackle.

got hisself all sorts of scientific gee gaws too. There's one radar kind of outfit for finding fish and a thermometer gadget on a wire you put down into the water to see if'n the temperatures where the fish like it. He claims it works real slick. I was joshing him and said 'Where's all the fishing skill gone?' Didn't faze him a bit. 'Takes more'n a bit of skill to use all this stuff,' he said.

Yup, guess he's right, but how do you get in a bit of thinking and a bit of sleeping and a lot of sun soaking when you got all them wires and stuff to figger out.

Reckon I ain't so keen for the catching as I am for the fishing. Maybe that's why I never done so good.

BY EDNA WILKINSON

There's a mouse in our house, and to him, nothing is sacred. Sly, cunning and elusive, he (or she) out manoeuvres me on every front. He seems to anticipate my every move and my best thought-out strategy and warily evades both trap and poison.

Strangely enough, I've never really thought of mice as being any particular sex, but if they have a sex, which I suppose they do, I'm sure this one is male. I just can't seem to get the drop on him.

It's come to a battle of wits now, and I've almost run out of new hiding places for my goodies. Chuckling to myself with glee, I'm sure that he will be stymied, but when the time comes to fill the lunch boxes, there is a bite missing from everything. I've even tried hiding things in the oven, and don't ask me how he got in there, but he did. If I could only anticipate his next move, he'd be roasted for sure.

I know well enough what brought him in the first place. On the very top shelf of the cupboard, there were several packets of seed left over from last year's planting. When I began cleaning the shelves I found, to my dismay, that every package was empty, with only a few kernels (and you know what else) left behind. This only added insult to injury.

Somewhere, come summer, there's going to be a mouse family with a nice fat garden. If I can find it, it will sure save me a lot of work, and he'll sure be sorry that he ever invaded my cupboard. That is, of course, if I outwit him first!

I've got one more trick up my sleeve, though. I'll make up the most sumptuous treat I can think of, plant the mouse poison in the very heart of the most delicious part, and stash it in the oven. Then all I'll have to do is sit back and wait for that very distinctive odour that will tell me, once and for all, that victory is finally mine.

I'll be holding my breath while I wait!

mobile Clubs, presented Bob with a plaque which expressed appreciation of consideration for snowmobilers.

Gifts presented included lawn chairs and table set, chain saw, circular saw, drill, tool box and miscellaneous tools. I think they must be wanting me to go back to work, chuckled Bob after the event. The gifts also included a complimentary pass to Sandbanks and Outlet Parks, due to expire in June of 1984 at which time he will be granted free access as a senior citizen.

It is estimated that at least 500 people have worked under Bob Davison and his success as a superintendent rested solely with his ability to deal with people.

'I'm leaving with a real sense of accomplishment,' commented Bob. But I couldn't have done it by myself.

During an earlier interview, Mr. Davison lamented, 'I will miss the park and staff I've worked with over the past 20 years. I don't give any credit to myself—the fellows do a terrific job.'

Outlet and Sandbanks are often thought of as the only parks in Prince Edward County, but Bob Davison stressed that North Beach Park is a busy park with 73,000 people visiting it last year. 'We have a good staff up there, they keep it neat as a pin,' Bob says he still has recollections of the time he and his wife, Jean, were marking out the location of the parking lot. 'It started to snow and before we got done, you couldn't see to the other side of the parking lot.'

Before coming to Outlet as a superintendent in 1960, as a conservation officer for 13 years Bob worked in the Fish and Wildlife Department of the then Dept. of Lands and Forests in the Flinton area where he was born and brought up. 'Those were the days when you did your patrolling on snowshoes, not snowmobiles.'

His work at Outlet, although rewarding, was a 24-hour a day job. Living in the Ministry house in Outlet Park, he admits the life was hard on the family as problems in the park could occur at any time of the day or night, but it did keep him close to his work and his interests.

One of his most vivid memories is the winter of 1977 when a snow storm in January of that year completely isolated him for several days from the rest of the county. With no telephone or electricity, the Davisons were forced, to rough it. 'We had a battery radio, a small acorn wood heater and an Arctic sleeping bag and we made out okay. Our main concern were the trees which kept crashing down all around the house. Art (Thompson) and Jim (Ives) checked in periodically on snowmobiles to see if we were still alive,' laughed Bob.

It took $75,000, 25 men, a skidding horse named, Frank, and three months to get the park back in shape.

What are Bob's plans, now that he is retired. 'No plans yet, I need time to get down to earth, get settled in our new home and relax for a few months.'

A LICENSED INSPECTION STATION

With pork at bargain prices in the stores, now is a good time to try out new ways to cook and serve this versatile meat.

STUFFED APPLES AND PORK

Small roast of pork
Lard for 'dotting'
1 oz lard for stuffing
4 cooking apples
1 cup dry sage and onion stuffing
1 large onion peeled and grated
salt and pepper

Put the meat in a roasting tin with about 2 tablespoons of water. Dot with lard. Allow 30 minutes to the pound and 30 minutes over at 375°F cooking time, with the pan near the top of the oven. Baste frequently.

Core apples and gently cut through the skin round the middle of the apple. Mix the onion with the stuffing mixture. Put the apples in a lightly greased pie dish. Fill core cavities with stuffing and spread on the rest over the top of the apples. Melt the lard, pour over the stuffing and season. Put the apples in the lower part of the oven 1½ hours before the meat has finished cooking, basting frequently with the juices from the meat.

PORK CHOPS WITH LEMON

Leave chops to marinate in lemon juice with a pinch of thyme and melted butter in a fireproof dish turning them once or twice during the process. Cook them in the same dish, fairly gently so that they absorb the juice as much as possible. Serve them straight from the dish with mashed or boiled potatoes or just home made bread. A green salad goes well with this dish.

PORK CHOPS IN ORANGE SAUCE

4 pork loin chops 1 inch thick
2 dessertspoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lard
1 dessertspoon brown sugar

ANYONE FROM HANOVER?
Dear Editor,

We need your help.

We are trying to locate former residents of Hanover, Ontario. Some of them may be living in your community.

We want to contact them as soon as possible, and decided that the best way to do so would be to write you.

Our reason?

We are planning a huge Memory Lane Homecoming Weekend for Canada Day, July 1st to 5th, 1981.

We want former Hanover residents to contact us, and with your help, we can accomplish our goal. Publication of this letter should do the trick.

Hanover folks who want to contact us for information about the homecoming should write to Memory Lane Homecoming, Box 308, Hanover, Ontario N4N 3H6.

We thank you in advance for your generous considerations.

LITTLE YELLOW WARBLER

BY RUTH C. WALLBRIDGE

Petite cage free Canary,
Swift-winged, sun-coloured fairy,
On a May day when the garden is gay
With dandelion, currant plum
With your reedy warble, you come
And the air grows more mellow
With your flash of yellow
You light up our day

Hung out for your weaving,
To fashion your nest,
Snug, well placed, made fast,
The storms of two seasons to out-last;
A mystery you pose,
How one tiny sprite knows
A secret of Nature, not many have heard
How to outwit the enemy Cowbird.

A new wrinkle
on stress.

How to cope.

Stress is something we encounter every week of the year. But during Mental Health Week, from May 4th to the 10th, we're putting the stress on knowing how to cope with it.

Stress is a part of normal living.

And a little stress can even help individuals realize new successes or achievements.

But evidence is mounting that excessive or prolonged stress is linked to major illnesses.

So the trick is not to ignore stress.

But to understand and control it. And now, during Mental Health Week, is a good time to start.

If tension, anxiety and daily pressures start mastering you instead of the other way around, try dealing with them in a few simple ways.

Keep up your general health. Good physical condition can help you cope with stress situations.

Talk about or work out your problems. Talking and physical activity are emotional outlets which can help put problems into perspective.

Give your support to friends, family and co-workers during periods of stress. As it helps them, it can also take your mind off your own problems.

Learn some of the new methods of controlling stress. There are all kinds of techniques, from the simplest to the most sophisticated.

And finally, get more information on how you can understand and deal with stress, by writing to: Ontario Ministry of Health, Resource Centre, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1S2.

After all, the more you know about stress, the better you can cope with it. And Mental Health Week is a good time to start.

YEAR-END BALANCE OF FUNDS UNDER ADMINISTRATION

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWN OF DESERONTO 1979 FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS NOTES

1. The 1979 Financial Report consolidates the operations, assets and liabilities of the Town and its local boards as follows:

Deseronto Public Library Board
Deseronto Community Recreation Centre
Deseronto Cemetery Board

Deseronto Public Utilities Commission - Hydro-Electric System
2. The enterprises of the Town whose revenues and expenditures have not been consolidated in the 1979 Financial Report are:

Deseronto Public Utilities Commission - Hydro-Electric System
3. In accordance with an agreement entered into between the Corporation and the Ministry of the Environment, the Corporation is obligated to pay the Ministry for water services provided in the Municipality. At the time that the agreement was negotiated, the Ministry estimated the annual water usage at 55 million gallons with a related annual cost of approximately $59,000.

The Ministry of the Environment commenced the supply of water services to the Municipality on May 1, 1978 and has billed the Corporation an aggregate amount of $205,488 to December 31, 1979. Against this liability, the Corporation has only paid $116,843 based on the estimated annual charge of approximately $59,000 and has advised the Ministry of the Environment that it will not pay the balance outstanding.

The Ministry of the Environment has not responded to the action taken by the Corporation and consequently on December 31, 1979 there existed an unrecorded liability to the Ministry of the Environment in the amount of $88,645.
4. Due to the matter referred to in Note 3 above, the Town's Auditors' have qualified their Audit Report on the 1979 Consolidated Financial Statements of the Town.
5. The above data have been extracted from the audited 1979 Financial Report of the Town and its local boards as described in Note 1. Copies of the 1979 Financial Report or the financial statements for the municipal enterprises not consolidated (see Note 2) are available at the Town Offices to any resident who wishes to review or analyze the financial operations of the Town in greater detail.

Deseronto Legion News

This past weekend was very busy for the Branch. At the elections on Friday evening Comrade Carson Jackson went in for a second term as president by acclamation. This shows the confidence the Branch has in Comrade Carson.

Comrade Ray Sweet was elected first vice-president, followed by Comrade Vic Brant as second vice-president. The elected executive were Comrade Clarence Wager, Bill Woods, Max Harrow and Neil Post. Congratulations to those Comrades installed as Branch officers. A special thanks to Comrades Jack Raschotte, Eric Walker, Doreen Burney from Branch 99 in Belleville for conducting the elections.

Saturday saw Comrades Carson Jackson, Bill Woods, Al Reed and Shereene Morris travel to Bowmanville for the Euchre playoffs.

The Fishing Derby was very successful with over 200 people taking part. Comrade Tom Lickers who organized the Derby and the Branch would like to thank those who donated prizes. They included: Brook's Dept. Store, Rex Cross, Thompsons Furniture, Jim Williamson, Hawley Bros., Doyle's Window Sales Ltd., Emerson Dunlop, Hubble's Coin Operated Laundry and Coin Wash, C.J. and Memphis, Dave Thomas, Four B's, Tom Hinchey, B & J Pole Line, Deseronto Fire Dept., Deseronto Cab, Carload (Meat Dept.), Conger's Plumbing, Deseronto Cleaners, Mohawk LOL 99, LOBA 1392, Jack Lapp and Canada Optical. Thanks also go to those taking part.

Sunday saw a Memorial Service at Christ Church. The Branch along with the Ladies Auxiliary and Comrades from Picton marched from the park to the church. The service was conducted by Comrade Rev. George Elson. After the service inside the church a wreath laying ceremony was conducted at the cairn in the church yard.

Coming events this month are:

May 10-11 trip to Bay Ridges - contact Comrade Vic Brant, Wed., May 7, Ladies Aux. Euchre, 8 p.m. in the upstairs hall, $1.00 includes lunch.

May 25, Drumhead Service at Wellington.

May 31, Fun Day, open Dart Tournament, 2 person team register on or before 12:30 p.m. May 31, Open Euchre, 2 person team register on or before 2:00 p.m. May 31, Trophies will be awarded. There will be a fish fry and spare rib dinner at 5 p.m. sharp and dancing to C.J. and Memphis in the evening.

Quinte News Round Up

FLOOR HOCKEY WINNERS

The girls from Deseronto Elementary School, who participated in the All Star Floor Hockey Tournament, April 22, emerged as champions, winning every one of their games.

Teams competing in the tournament were Hillcrest, Atkins and Henry J. Clark School of Belleville, Quinte Mohawk, Tyendinaga and Deseronto.

Coach of the Deseronto team is teacher Jack Murphy, vice-principal of the school.

Two days later the boys had a tournament at the Deseronto School and did just as well as the girls.

HISTORIC ANNUAL

Charles Humber, vice-president of the National Association of United Empire Loyalists in Canada, will be guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society, at Grace United Church in Napanee on May 10. He'll be talking about Governor John Graves Simcoe.

Other events upcoming are a House Tour on May 31; a Herb Seminar on May 12 and 26 and June 2, 9, 16 and 23 in the afternoons.

GETTING TOGETHER

A presentation of the Getting Together program, an interface with the schools and business community of Hastings County was introduced at a Board of Education meeting by Ray Ward, assistant superintendent of curriculum.

Don Brittel, Centennial Secondary School, introduced his committee members: Bob McKnight, Belleville Collegiate; Barbara Stephanson, Centennial School; Allan Greer Ontario Business College; Evan Bogart, Brooke Bond Foods Limited; Dennis Laundry, Stanley Structures and Erwin Prefer, AOCO Limited.

GETTING THEIR KICKS

Vandal, using hockey sticks and a pick axe have been busy in the Big Island Cemetery in Prince Edward County.

Some of the stones, which had been standing for 150 years, have been broken into pieces, every ornamental knob, but one, was broken off the stone markers, and smaller markers were ripped out of the ground.

What a way to get your kicks!

MORE BOOZE VETOS

Last week we reported that this summer from May 7 to June 1, the consumption or possession of alcoholic beverages would not be permitted in 20 provincial parks.

But that doesn't mean you can drink wherever you please at other times of the year.

The Ministry of Natural Resources reminds campers that the camper and any guests may drink alcoholic beverages on the campsite, but no one is allowed to drink or have an open container of any type of alcoholic beverage in any other area of the park, including park roads, beaches or picnic grounds.

ON THE OTHER HAND ...

Under changes in the Excise Act, provision is being made for the granting of special temporary licenses to persons who wish to engage in the manufacture of denatured spirits for use solely in the experimentation and development of alcohol fuels for their own use; bond requirements for such licenses will be lower than those required for distillers.

Ontario: Let's all pitch in Ontario in spring-time is beautiful when it is not marred by the scrubby look of winter's leftover litter. The thoughtless, throw-away habits of a few people can spoil it for others at a time when our countryside is once again ready for full warm weather enjoyment.

Fortunately, many community-minded people care about this and want to help keep Ontario beautiful.

The 19,000 members of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, for example, assisted by the Ministry of the Environment, are staging PITCH IN DAY on Saturday, June 7th. Anglers and Hunters all over Ontario are organizing special environmental PITCH IN projects to clean-up litter and junk from streams, shorelines, rural roads and trails, picnic areas and campsites and other areas which lack regular litter collection services.

You can help to fight pollution all year long.

Start by joining a PITCH IN project in your area.

Then, PITCH IN to Keep Ontario Beautiful. We all benefit when you do.

Alcohol and drugs — your choice

ADDICTIONS IN QUINTE AREA

Addictions and personal choices about drug and alcohol use will be the theme of a unique public awareness campaign during May.

This move to develop public awareness of addictions in and around the Quinte area is a project of the Quinte Addictions Network, a group of agencies offering services to those encountering addiction problems.

The Addictions Network, in sponsoring the month of public education, hopes to improve services to clients through the co-ordination of programs and with public education.

Network members have selected 'choices' as the theme for Addition months activities.

Co-ordinator Gail Manion says the theme 'reflects each persons responsibility to choose whether alcohol and drug abuse will be a part of their lives.' Manion and her colleagues also present the option of not being involved with either drugs or alcohol.

'The use of drugs and alcohol need not be something that someone just falls into,' said Manion. It represents one of the choices we have, just as non-use represents a real choice. It's our hope that during this month, people in the Quinte area will make a special effort to become informed in order that the choices they make will be responsible ones.'

An interesting series of events has been planned for the month by the organizing committee. The events are geared to the public, employers young people and the employees of various agencies who may find themselves in contact, with people suffering from alcohol and drug related problems.

The news media, newspapers, radio and television will be used extensively during the campaign to heighten the public's awareness of the theme.

A major display and information centre will be set up at the Quinte mall in Belleville on May ninth and tenth. Also during the month the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation will have a mobile display in Belleville.

The agencies in the Quinte Addictions Network are the local office of the Addiction Research Foundation, the A.T.A.C. Center (Addictions Training Assessment and Counselling), Serenity House, the Ministry of Community and Social Services Vocational Rehabilitation branch, the Ministry of Correctional Services, Belleville General Hospital (Quinte three) and Canadian Forces Base Trenton.

RETIRING TEACHER HONOUR

Miss Willehmine Huffman of Belleville was honoured by her colleagues at Monday morning's official opening of Education Week. Miss Huffman was the recipient of The Sir Mackenzie Bowell Award for 1980 Educator of the year. This annual award is given to an educator who has made an outstanding contribution to education in the Quinte area.

Education Week in the Quinte area officially opened Monday morning at a special breakfast held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Trenton. The guests included area administrators, trustees, teachers, and students. As part of Monday morning's proceedings, the winner of The Mackenzie Bowell Award for 1980 Educator of the Year was announced by a special ten-member selection committee.

The trophy was presented by Miss Phyllis Beatty of Belleville. Miss Beatty was the recipient of The Sir Mackenzie Bowell Award for 1979 Educator of the Year.

Miss Huffman was born, educated, and spent her entire professional career in Hastings County. The first six years of this career were spent in elementary schools and then, in September of 1950, she went to the Ontario School for the Deaf where she has worked as a classroom teacher, Educational Co-ordinator and Instructor in Professional Training.

Over the past 14 years, members of the L & A County Hospital Auxiliary have raised and donated $116,000 for equipment. Marnie Dickinson of Deseronto, auxiliary president, and Ellen Snider, director of nursing, stop to look at the lift chair in the whirlpool bath, one of the items contributed by the auxiliary.

Auxiliary helped equip new unit

Total cost of building and equipping the new unit was $48,000. The Hospital Auxiliary donated $10,000 for equipment and the remainder was paid from hospital association funds.

'In the past 14 years the Hospital Auxiliary has given over $116,000 to the hospital for equipment,' said Marnie Dickinson, Deseronto, president of the auxiliary.

On hand for the signing of the commemorative document that marked the official opening of the new unit were: W.J. Finlay, chairman of the board, W.D. Ronald, hospital administrator, Dr. D.J. Alkenbrack, Dr. Bergstrom, chief of medical staff and Mrs. Dickinson.

Is your grandma in this picture?

By BESS WARES

If you drive out of Kingston, along the old Front Road which follows the Lake Ontario shoreline west to Lemoyne Point, you will pass 'Cedar Cove', the home of Calvin Woster Day and his wife, Elizabeth Wright, back in the early 1800's.

The seven young ladies in the picture above were their daughters and, although none of them was my great grandmother, all of them were my great aunts ... the sisters of my grandfather, Sydney Wellington Day.

Many of their descendants are living in the Kingston-Prince Edward-Quinte area now. You may be one of them.

The girls were: Mary Jane, born 1835, married to Samuel Clark; Hester Burdett, born in 1837, married James Day; Rhoda, born 1839, married Samuel Purdy; Emily, born 1841, married Matthew Clark; Charlotte, born 1842, married Frank Marshall; Catherine, born 1844, married Reverend William Washington; Harriet, born 1846, married twice, the first time to W.H. Miller, and then to John A. Fraser.

I knew two of them personally, when they were very old. Ladies ... Catherine (Aunt Kate to us) and Harriet.

Aunt Harriet lived in Napanee all her married life.

Aunt Kate lived in Bowmanville, and her home was our 'hotel' for the night on all of our trips from Kingston to Toronto when I was a little girl. The bad roads and low speed limits made it an overnight trek.

When Aunt Kate met her husband, he was a circuit preacher, going from town to town. After he met my great aunt, he wrote in his diary: 'Almost I am persuaded to ask Catherine to be my wife', and he finally did.

After their wedding, they had to travel to Bowmanville by boat because the roads were too bad to get there.

I remember her as a spry old lady in her 90's, with unfailing eyesight and joie de vivre, stopping off for a visit with us on the way to Vancouver. She was travelling by herself and had packed lunches to eat on the long train trip. And, from a chair away across the room, she spotted the fact that my mother's stockings were not quite mated ... something none of the rest of us had noticed.

My grandfather was born after his seven sisters, in 1851, and lived on the farm at Cedar Cove for many years. His wife, the former Adelaide Isabella Waggoner, knew Prince Edward County well because her mother, Nancy Harrison, came from Cressy.

Grandpa's brother, Calvin junior, lived on the adjoining farm on the Front Road and his wife and my grandmother used to walk up the road to meet each other halfway and sit down for a chat. Dad used to tell us how Grandma always worried on that trip in case she met a bear. They were still fairly plentiful in those days.

I'd be interested in hearing whether any of our readers did find their own great or great grandmother in our picture.

Residential mill rate up 9.4% in Deseronto

Residential property owners in Deseronto are going to have to come up with an additional 20.13 mills on their tax bills this year, an increase of 9.4%, and commercial property owners will be hit with an additional 29.95 mills, an increase of 12.2%.

To put the increase in perspective, if you are a residential property owner with an assessment value of $2,000 (which is an average for Deseronto), you will pay $467.66 in taxes this year, compared with $427.40 last year.

The major part of the increase is due to a 12.5% increase for education purposes. For town and county purposes, the increase is only 6.9%.

On commercial property, there was the same 6.9% increase for town general and county purposes but there was a 19.1% increase for education purposes. This was because previously there was a 15% differential between residential and commercial for town and county purposes but only a 10% differential for education purposes. Now the 15% differential applies to education levies too.

A by-law setting the 1980 mill rate was passed at Monday night's meeting of Deseronto Town Council.

At Monday night's meeting, council also reviewed the 1979 audited financial statements, and representatives from Wilkinson and Co. were on hand to discuss the outstanding liability of $88,645 to the Ministry of the Environment for costs of water.

They pointed out that, because of this, a fair financial state is not reported in the financial statements.

'You are disputing this billing.'

the auditors said. 'We've contacted the MOE and haven't even had the courtesy of a reply. We can do a follow up but if there is no further response than before, we're where we are now.'

'They are being paid at the rate they requested,' Councillor R. Cole pointed out. 'We did make a recommendation to begin to collect enough to cover this deficit but council decided to wait for a reply from the MOE.'

'It is my belief that the Ministry won't push us until it is all settled,' Mayor John Neal said.

The auditors had a suggestion. Another municipality with a similar problem got the MOE to forgive the amount owing but then the MOE put that amount on the top of the capital debt.

Claxton trial date is set

Robert James Claxton, 31, of 16 Main Street, Picton, who has been charged with four counts of indecent assault on males, appeared in provincial court in Picton Tuesday morning, before Judge Thomas Walker. Trial date has been set for May 27.

A spokesman for the provincial court said that juveniles were involved.

Shortly before the charges were laid, Mr. Claxton resigned from his position as an employee of the Prince Edward County board of Education, which hired him in January of 1975. At the time of his resignation, he was teaching grade 5 at Pinecrest School in Bloomfield.

Prince Edward swamps, marshes filmed for 'Regional Contact'

By TERRY SPRAGUE

It is uncertain whether one can attribute it to Max Keeping's untiring interest of the Quinte area, or whether it's simply because the region abounds with interesting goings-on.

Whatever the reasons, CJOH-TV from Ottawa was in the Quinte area again, and only a short time after having shown a segment on the Black River

Cheese Factory on the station's Regional Contact program.

This time a film crew was in Prince Edward County to do a presentation on swamps and marshes, a timely subject since much attention is being focussed these days on wetlands and the value of them as wildlife propagation and refuge areas.

A WASTE OF PROVINCIAL MONEY?

The Ontario Government, which has cut back its education, child care, medicare and other social services to the bone, is sinking $9.6 million into its 1980 tourism marketing plan ... up by $3.5 million from last year's budget.

And what is the money going to be spent on? A stepped-up campaign aimed mainly at encouraging Ontario tourists to travel within the province.

'In the past, our target markets have been, in order of priority, the United States, our domestic market and Europe,' says Ontario's Industry and Tourism Minister Larry Grossman.

'Since potential travellers from the U.S. already perceive Ontario to be an attractive destination, this year we decided to place our highest priority on Ontario. Ontario residents are going elsewhere for attractions which are available here.'

The campaign will feature 30-second TV commercials, radio ads featuring a new musical theme, billboard ads, full-page colour ads in newspapers, a 40-page colour magazine to be distributed via daily papers and a 'Discovery Kit' that acts as a 'passport' to Ontario events.

Maybe Mr. Grossman should take a good look at why so many people in Ontario do their travelling elsewhere. We could give him one good reason ... those awful 'service' centres on the 401, with their high prices and poor food.

Somewhat the campaign seems like an awful waste of money. This year more people will be staying right here in Ontario anyway. Who's got the money today to pay for the gas to travel any distance? Most people will be staying close to home this year.

Gift suggestion for the man who has everything: a tank of gas, four quarts of oil and thou!

Oh by golly, a feller don't know how soft he's got in the winter till spring planting time comes. What with high prices and the plastic taste in the supermarket vegetables and Elma's orgasmic gardening kick, she up and doubles the size of her garden this year. I figured she were aiming to feed the entire Armed Forces single handed last year, now I reckon she's throwing in the starving heathens somewheres too.

Anyways, that means another fight with unturmed sod and quack grass for yours truly.

Still and all, there ain't nothing like a tired body to get you to sleep of a night, and I were reading the other day that the better shape you're in the better your sex life gets to be. Course, Elma could of left that article where I were sure to find it for a sort of incentive to set to in the garden with a bit more enthusiasm. Never can tell about that woman.

Say, heard a good one the other day at the feed store. Seems this suburbanite woman and her man bought up a local farm last year. She were hot on this organic gardening kick as well (but by the sounds of it, she ain't got quite as much savvy as Elma) and she told the feller she had working around the place that she wanted some manure on the garden patch. Sure enough he fetched up a spreader load to this little garden and spread it. 'I want ten loads on there,' she says. 'But lady, that's a lot of manure,' says he. 'I know, and I want ten loads.' 'OK you're the boss,' he says.

Damn near didn't get the tractor out on the last load, right up to the axles she were. By golly, she had the greenest garden ever that summer. Sow thistle like Christmas trees. Only trouble is, there ain't much else beside sow thistles can grow in straight cow dung. And I wouldn't figger they was too tasty.

Mind you, I can't say as all the weeds taste bad. Me and Elma had our yearly feast of fiddle heads last weekend. Nearly missed them this year on account of that warm spell bringing 'em on faster than usual. Still and all, they tasted real good. We got our first salad this weekend as well. Thinnings from Elma's lettuce row and dandelion greens. Come to think on it, we've tried eating all sorts of stuff. Milkweed pods is real good when they're young, and nobody comes near our place when we get into the wild leaks. About the only wild stuff we tried that weren't good were cattails, but then we ain't never tried the tops, just the spring shoots, and they tasted real muddy.

That were another of Elma's kicks, she got into weed eating a couple of years back and I figgered for sure she were going to poison us all. Reckon we're still here though. That's one thing living in the country, it ain't boring. Specially with somebody like Elma, never can tell what she'll take up next. Still, all the outside work has put her mind of growing mushrooms in the cellar for a while. She ain't asked me to get her no horse manure for a couple of weeks now. If'n I'm lucky I might be able to keep her busy till puffball time. Reckon when she's got them to cook, she'll forget about rotten horse muck in my cellar.

CUT FLOWER CARE

The display and care of cut flowers will be the topic at the May 22 meeting of the Prince Edward Horticulture Society, at 7:30 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Hall on Ross Street, Picton.

The talk will be presented by members Cleone Neff and Ruth Geary and will include a series of slides.

A plant exchange will also take place.

CONTRACT LET

H.J. McFarland Construction Co. of Picton has been awarded the contract for upgrading Highway 62 from Ivanhoe to Madoc.

Tender was $449,816.35, and work will commence this month.

JUNIOR FARM HELP

The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food sponsors a program designed to provide non-farm youth with a chance to gain practical experience in farming.

Sixteen and 17-year-old students are placed on selected commercial farms and work along with the host family. The employment period is from June 16 to August 16. Wages are $12 a day of which the farmer pays $6 and the Ministry pays $6.

The person to contact is Nora Cowell, junior agriculturalist coordinator, Box 651, Kingston.

ON THE A.L.E.R.T!

A pilot project testing roadside alcohol screening devices has achieved such significant results it is being expanded, and Belleville is one of the districts in which the OPP will be provided with an ALERT machine.

The pilot project was conducted in four OPP districts, Downsview, Mount Forest, Barrie and Peterborough, and accidents in the four districts decreased by an average of eight per cent.

Almost 45 per cent of the 3,200 people tested during the first seven months of the experiment were charged with alcohol-related offences.

The circus came to Deseronto on Tuesday and some early-risers were on hand at the Canada Optical Field to see the Martin and Downs workers unload the tents, and animals. Don Keith of 362 Thomas Street was one of them. Here he points out a scary-looking snake poster to daughter Debra Lynn.

NEW BAY BRIDGE

Construction of a new bridge across the Bay of Quinte between Belleville and Rossmore is expected to begin this year and be completed in 1982. The bridge will be a two-lane, high-level bridge built immediately east of the existing bridges and causeway. It will be named after the late Norris Whitney.

'This bridge has been designed to serve the best interest of both highway traffic and shipping in the Bay of Quinte and should be a fitting tribute to Mr. Whitney,' Minister of Transportation and Communications, James Snow, said.

FRESH VEGETABLE CO-OP

Members from Prince Edward, Hastings and Northumberland have signed up for a fresh vegetable marketing cooperative to market tomatoes, cauliflower and broccoli this summer.

The group plans to produce 40 acres of tomatoes, 30 acres of cauliflower, and 20 acres of broccoli, which will be taken to Quinte Fruit Growers Ltd. in Trenton.

A GAME OLD GIRL

You shouldn't ask too much of old friends

BY ANITA GENTILE

She's a game old girl. Getting on a bit in years, she's lost the bloom of youth, yet she's acquired the placid comfortableness which often comes with old age.

Considering her age, she's quite remarkable. She used to have a problem getting going in the mornings, especially in cold weather, but with our help, she managed to overcome that, much to our relief.

When I first became acquainted with her, I thought she was rather big and cumbersome, but you know, there's something about 'bigness' that grows on you. I soon became used to her size, and got to know her odd little habits and eccentricities and learned to deal with them.

Her manners are most commendable. There was an occasion when something I said must have offended her, for on the way home from town, she wasn't herself at all. I could tell from the way she moved that something was amiss. However, it is to her credit that she didn't blow her top until we turned into our driveway, but then, oh boy, did she let off steam!

I feel guilty at times that I expect too much of her, that I'm working her too hard. She's very strong, but I think I was pushing her when I had her carry seven bags of grain at one time. I noticed a definite slump in her attitude, and I wasn't at all sure if she would make it up the Golf Course Hill. She did, of course, through sheer persistence, but when she wouldn't move for a whole week afterwards, I realized that I'd been rather unkind.

She's accompanied me lately on many business trips and has been a tremendous help. I make sure her load is a lot lighter now, for at her age, I feel she deserves a little consideration. She's really been a faithful friend, and although she's had her temperamental moments and an occasional stubborn silence, all in all, she's done the best she can.

There's a lot to be said for a long-term relationship. I wouldn't throw her over now for a younger helper, but if I do find I need more assistance, then I may look around. Then the old girl will be able to take some well-deserved rest from her labours, and slumber in the twilight of her years.

One For The Pot

ZESTY BAKED PORK CHOPS

This recipe came from Marion Taylor of Bloomfield.

5 or 6 thick loin pork chops
Salt and pepper
1 onion, sliced
1/3 cup brown sugar
1/3 cup catsup
3 tablespoons water

Brown chops nicely on both sides in a greased frying pan. Season with salt and pepper.

Transfer to baking pan.

Place an onion slice on each chop.

Combine brown sugar, catsup and water. Pour over chops.

Bake, covered in preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes.

Uncover and bake for another 15 minutes.

Pressed garlic yields more flavor than diced garlic.

BUBBLE AND SQUEAK

And this one was recorded by a Mrs. Garden, in an old cook book dated 1847.

Cut from boiled beef slices the thickness of a penny piece. Trim and cut them as you please. Partly underdone are the best.

Plain boil one large cabbage, one onion, one carrot. When cooked, drain and mince very fine, removing any hard parts of cabbage.

Put into a saute pan a piece of butter as large as an egg when melted. Put in beef to warm, taking care it does not dry.

This done, remove the meat and put in the vegetables. Stir on the fire till very hot, moisten with stock, add salt, pepper.

Place them and the meat on the dish the same as cutlets.

Pour a little stock over and serve.

'Oui' vote might bring Ontario election NDP annual told

'Some people around Queen's Park are predicting a snap election if Quebec votes 'Oui' in the May 20th referendum,' George Samis, MPP from Cornwall, guest speaker, told the annual meeting of the Hastings-Peterborough New Democratic Party Provincial Riding Association, Saturday night, in Madoc.

He stated that it would be the height of political irresponsibility and crass cynicism for any Premier to exploit a separatist victory merely to gain a few more seats or to strengthen his own personal position.

Mr. Samis also spoke on high interest rates, economic prospects for Ontario in the 80's and Medicare.

A warning to get ready for the next provincial election was also given by Paul Whittaker, RR 1, Gilmour, who was unanimously re-elected president of the Riding Association.

Mr. Whittaker said he was very pleased by the high calibre of people elected to the executive.

Elected to the executive were: Susan Stephenson, Belleville, vice-president; Elmer Buchanan, Tweed, delegate to the Provincial Council; Don Wilson, NDP candidate in the last two federal elections, chief financial officer; Paul Croscup, Deseronto, co-ordinator; Lilly Lefort, Shannonville, co-ordinator; and Marie Whittaker, news letter.

About 60 people attended the annual meeting which was held at the Madoc Hotel.

"In Spring,
A Householder's
Fancy..."

In spring, a householder's attention turns to planting a garden, cutting the lawn, trimming the hedge... In this mechanized age, just about every home and garden project has a fancy electrical tool for the job. Power lawnmowers, hedge clippers, grass trimmers, rototillers, the list seems endless.

Power equipment may be the last word in ease and convenience but each one requires not only energy to operate it but energy to manufacture it as well. Before you buy, ask yourself: If you really need it? The job may take a little longer without power help, but think of the extra exercise and fresh air you gain.

If you do feel that power tools are a must, then consider saving energy (and money) by renting or sharing with a neighbour. Maintaining the equipment in good running order and using it efficiently will also help keep the energy bill down.

Deseronto Council Briefs

...A lot of children are being badgered coming and going from school,' Betty Bint told Deseronto Town Council at its Monday night meeting.

Mrs. Bint is a member of the organizing committee which requested town council to endorse the setting up of a Block Parent Program in town. Council did endorse it and it is expected the program will be functioning by September.

...Council had further discussion concerning the suggestion from Hastings County that there should be four installments of payments of the county levy by municipalities, instead of three.

Reeve B. Johnston reported that many municipalities were against it and that it needed two-thirds affirmative vote for the change to four payments to be made.

'It doesn't look as if our decision would make much difference,' he said.

Clerk treasurer Carman Milligan estimated that the county would save about $120,000 in interest on loan payments if the four installments were in effect and that this would mean about $3,400 in saving: for Deseronto's share of the interest.

The matter was turned over to the Municipal administration committee.

...I personally think the Rural and Native Housing Program is unfair,' Councillor R. Cole said, during discussion of a letter sent to Jack Ellis, MP for Prince Edward/Hastings, from Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Objective of the program is to provide new incentives for low-income families to become home owners. Low income is something under $12,000 a year.

Under the first phase of the program in Deseronto, 6 units were acquired and an additional 6 under the second phase.

'There are certain residents who require and should be assisted with housing, it's our responsibility,' said Mr. Cole. 'But, on the other hand, I don't agree that home ownership is a right'. And he mentioned that there were other hard-working people who can't get a mortgage or who are paying high interest rates.

He figured that someone getting a $40,000 house, with a 12% mortgage amortized over 25 years, and who only had to pay a quarter of the monthly cost himself (as the RNHP requires) would be subsidized to the amount of $102,247 over the 25 years.

The letter was turned over to the municipal administration committee.

...Chairman of the recreation committee, W. Higgins, reported that the recreation bus had 'problems'...it is jumping out of gear and it's out of warranty.

Repairs will be done.

...Council received an invitation from the family of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kelly to attend a dinner and dance on June 14 in honour of a 60th wedding anniversary.

Sophiasburgh Central School held its annual 'Fun Fair' last Friday night. Here several youngsters take turns at the Fish Pond, one of the numerous attractions at the two-hour event.

Rabid animals are a hazard this spring.

Rabies, which is spread by infected animals, is a serious problem in Ontario.

This spring it is of special concern in built up areas where wild animals...

particularly skunks...are infecting pets and children who come in contact with them.

Children should be warned to avoid wild animals, especially if they appear sick or friendly because these usually are signs that they are rabid.

Pets should be regularly vaccinated and kept indoors at night. You can also help to control rabies by reporting any pets or wild animals which seem to be acting strangely to your local police, humane society or health unit.

Do not touch dead animals and contact your doctor or health unit immediately if your child or pet comes in contact with wild animals. Do not handle your pet with bare hands immediately after it has fought with a rabid animal. Seek advice from a veterinarian.

LIBRARY NOTES

Please note that the library will be closed on Monday, May 19, for the Victoria Day holiday. Patrons' books have been stamped accordingly.

Adult fiction readers will be pleased to know that the 'Wagons West' series is available at the library: 'Independence', 'Nebraska', 'Wyoming' and 'Oregon'. Robert Lucum's 'The Bourne Identity' is also circulating.

Young and old should enjoy the pictures and text of 'The Living World of the Sea'. This book covers most aspects of the oceans of the world.

Added to the National Book Festival display in the children's area is 'Willie the Squowse' by Ted Allan. 'Willie' is a cross between a squirrel and mouse and should enchant your youngsters.

If you would like to know more about rabies write for a free copy of our pamphlet. ANIMALS, RABIES AND YOU from the Ontario Health Resource Centre, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1S2.

Baha'i Faith

O SON OF BEING! How couldst thou forget thine own faults and busy thyself with the faults of others? Whoso doeth this is accused of Me. Breathe not the sins of others so long as thou art thyself a sinner. he that biddeth men be just and himself committeth iniquity is not of Me, even though he bear My name."

'Canada First' research strategy needed

BY WAYNE COOPER

Canada's spending on Research and Development (R&D) is pathetically below any other industrialized nation in the world. Although this negligence will only cause slow death to our economy, the lack of a domestic R&D base could cost the Canadian Forces casualties and defeats in the event of a hot war.

To date, our Military R&D has been a mish mash of daring and meekness, boldness and cowardice, sophistication and blundering, sprinkled spacially with genius and stupidity. In summary, expensive and ineffective. Little wonder the Canadian taxpayer twitches at the hint of more money allocated to another hair-brained experiment for Ottawa to pour money into and at the end spend still more money moth-balling or dismantling as with the 'Bras d'Or' and the 'Air Cushion Landing System.'

Unfortunately, these and other disasters have sent politicians, generals and most citizens into corners sucking their thumbs. The result has been the non-policy which can only lead the Nation into global obscurity before the end of the century. We have rationalized our ineptitude by declaring that it is better to let our allies do the risky, expensive R&D while we merely buy the proven hardware for our soldiers, sailors and airmen.

This short-sighted approach is jam-packed with nonsense. Two fallacies are obvious.

First of all, our allies are smart enough to charge us for our portion of their R&D. In the case of the Americans, there is no beating around the bush. An R&D levy is charged in order to partially repay their country for the money risked on the development of the equipment. So much for the Canadian dream of getting something for nothing.

The second fallacy is that the best equipment is available through someone else's R&D. Clinging to such a myth will continue to result in 'Brand New Obsolescence'. If you have ever wondered why our newest fighting equipment is at least one step behind everyone else's, it is because we haven't been doing our own R&D.

'Brand New Obsolescence' can be illustrated by our recent purchase of Leopard tanks for our NATO troops. These tanks are actually Leopard I's, which means that there are also Leopard II's. If you haven't already guessed, they are a later, better version of the tanks we bought for the Canadian Forces.

The Germans spent the money on developing the Leopard, so naturally they drive the updated version. The Germans and the Canadians face the same enemy in Europe and when war breaks out, there is bound to be a proportionately higher number of young Canadians dead, wounded and captured, simply because we had to buy the second best tanks.

It may be difficult to prove beyond a doubt that there is a direct relationship between casualties and vigorous R&D programs, but history contains many examples. Who can dispute that the Spitfire and radar played a decisive role in stopping Hitler's conquest of the World?

Canada's past R&D record has been dismal. What we needed and still must develop is a 'Canada First' R&D strategy which will stand on its own and not succeed or fail due to the requirements or whims of our allies. Until we do, we are giving our fighting men and women second rate equipment to defend themselves and their country.

TV filming complicated job

Sara Wolch and Carl Himmelman of CJOH explained the filming would be for a 10-minute segment of the station's popular Regional Contact program, and is tentatively scheduled for airing this Saturday evening at 6:30 pm. According to Himmelman, ten minutes is 'a lot of television time', compared to most news stories which may last only a fraction of that time.

NO FIVE-MINUTE JOB?

Sound like a five-minute job?

Don't believe it! The Station arrived in Prince Edward County at noon and were busy filming and conducting interviews throughout the entire afternoon.

The little bits and scraps of film acquired during the day will be edited and pieced together, generously sprinkled with commentary from the program's host as a result of notes gathered by the film crew, and on camera interviews dubbed in where appropriate.

If it sounds like a massive task and one which might entail weeks of hair-pulling work, Carl Himmelman says the preparation for airing takes about a day to complete. The end result is a 10-minute segment which will boast faultless synchronizing and will flow along smoothly and swiftly.

The impeccable photography in this special presentation can be directly attributed to cameraman Carl Himmelman who has been with CJOH for eight years.

He is quite obviously happiest with his camera propped up on his shoulder and pivots his piece of equipment with dexterity as he captures the atmosphere of his stories on film.

Sara Wolch has been with CJOH for only three weeks, formerly working as a free lance for the CBC. She conducts the live interviews in these sessions, which are stored on cassette tape to be later spliced into the finished product.

FILMED IN SWAMP

The filming, which took place last Wednesday, focused in on two main areas in the county - a typical flooded swamp near Cherry Valley and the Big Island Marsh near Deserontoville. The cast in the film were the animals - snakes, turtles, birds and frogs. Most turned out to be quite cooperative.

Carl Himmelman says Regional Contact which has enjoyed 10 years of successful programming, does not have a separate crew whose purpose it is to record stories for that program only. Filming is generally done on interesting people and events, and is then used wherever it fits in the best.

Most of the ideas for Regional Contact come from viewers who send in story suggestions, and others are picked up in passing.

But whatever method is used to get its ideas, it certainly must be working as Regional Contact continues to attract a dedicated following with no let up on story ideas.

Spring is really here! The leaves are coming out on the trees and the open water in Deseronto Mill Pond reflects the boat houses on the other shore again.

Hybrid heating systems mean economic efficiency according to Jim Taylor

James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward Lennox, announced from Queen's Park that he has introduced a resolution urging the Provincial Government to have Ontario Hydro develop and demonstrate the positive benefits to the people of Ontario of electric hybrid heating.

Electric hybrid heating is a combination system in which inexpensive off-peak electricity provides base-line space heating, supplemented or replaced entirely by existing oil or gas furnaces as total demands on the electric power system peak.

'In a typical home,' he explained, 'a conventional forced-air or baseboard oil or gas heating system can easily be retrofitted with an electric furnace.'

Mr. Taylor also pointed out that hybrid heating means economic efficiency.

'For Canada as a whole, widespread use of hybrid heating systems could improve the utilization factor of the electric system from its present value of 52 per cent to 70.75 per cent; in other words, a 40 per cent improvement in overall efficiency,' Mr. Taylor said. 'Such a move would be a marked increase in Ontario Hydro's capacity factor,' he added. 'More energy would be utilized from Hydro's power stations - without expansion of the system. Hydro's surplus capacity would be put to work for the benefit of the Ontario public.'

He also pointed out that switching from fossil fuel to electric heating when load conditions permit would stabilize demand for electricity by filling in an increasingly steep daily 'valley', and smoothing out the subsequent load 'peak'.

Within the next 20 years Canada will experience a considerable shortfall in crude oil. As a result of an unstable international situation and other factors, Mr. Taylor strongly recommends that this new measure be introduced to improve Ontario's security of energy supply.

'Hybrid heating would reduce our yearly growth in fossil fuel use and help create meaningful jobs for a significant number of people across Ontario,' he added.

'While hybrid heating is not a complete answer to this problem, it is unquestionably a significant part of the solution,' he concluded.

This resolution will be debated during private member's hour in the Legislature on Thursday, May 22.

Chief Clark warns bikers charges will be laid

Fair warning to bike riders! Deseronto Police are going to start laying charges for infractions of the Highway Traffic Act.

'People are beginning to complain about the way the youngsters are riding their bicycles,' Deseronto Police Chief Norman Clark reports, 'and we've already had one accident where a kid was hit by a bike.'

'Bike riders have to follow the rules of the road the same way car drivers do, and we're going to start laying charges if they don't.'

'There's a $28 fine for not obeying the laws and, if the bike rider is under 16, the bike could be confiscated until the case is heard in court.'

So here's a reminder. When you're riding your bike you must obey traffic signs, like stop signs. You must signal your turns. You must have a bell, a horn, or a gong on the bike.

If you're riding at night, you must have a white or amber front light, a red reflector or light on the rear. You must also have red reflective material at least 10 inches long and one inch wide on the back fender and the front forks must have white reflective material at least 10 inches long and one inch wide.

And here are some safety tips. They aren't required by law, but they make good sense.

Keep your handle bars straight, tight and right height. Keep handlebar nuts tight. Make sure grips are snug.

If the seat is not properly adjusted, you can't drive safely and without strain and fatigue. Too low or too high, you lose pumping power.

The front hub, head bearing, coaster brake, and crank bearings need good multi-purpose grease. Chain and pedals need good light machine oil.

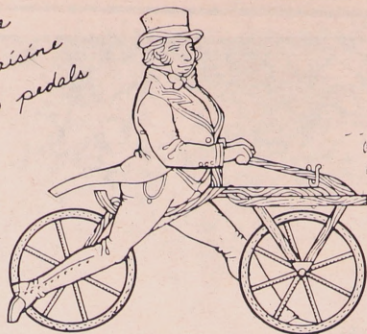

Check the wheels for bent or missing spokes. Wheels won't run true if all spokes aren't tight and in position. Keep the axle nuts tight.

Brakes are just as important on your bicycle as on a car. Keep them properly adjusted.

The chain should be cleaned and oiled regularly. Remember, it connects the source of power (you on the pedals) with the sprockets that provide the drive. Check for weak links. Keep proper tension. About 3/4 inch up and down movement is correct.

Check the tires for cuts and bruises and keep the pressure up. Don't drive with bald tires. You'll have poor traction, slow stopping when you hit the brake.

Picton, Deseronto deciding what to do with CSCP grants

Back in February, Deseronto and Picton received notification that they were among the municipalities that would share more than $34 million in federal and provincial funding to be distributed under terms of the Community Services Contribution Program.

Deseronto is to benefit to the tune of $300,000 and Picton got a million.

The grants may be used for a wide variety of projects, including water, sewers, roads, sidewalks, parks, community centres and recreational facilities to help preserve residential neighbourhoods and the cost is shared 50 per cent by the federal government, and the rest by the province and the municipality.

But, to qualify for the grants, the municipality must submit a redevelopment program by the end of 1980, to be approved by the Ministry of Housing. Spending from the grants will not begin 1981.

Picton has already made proposals about what to do with its grant. It has asked the Ministry of Housing to approve a survey of Picton harbour and of the town marsh area before further work is undertaken under the CSCP.

It also intends to acquire the former dump site from the Ministry of Natural Resources and turn it into a park area.

Deseronto has also taken action. An ad hoc committee of the town council came up with a list of proposed projects, after thorough discussion with its consultant, R.G. McEwen.

Deseronto proposed to spend $234,000 on reconstruction of Thomas Street from Fourth to Green Street; $33,500 on the expansion of heated viewing space at the community centre; $16,400 for completion of the baseball field at the back of the community centre; $35,000 for repairs and expansion at the library; $50,000 for repairs and expansion at the Fire Hall; $40,000 for a community hall next to the Fire Hall to be used mainly to house Scouting organization, and $3,000 for grading of property at the old pump house.

People were given a chance to air their opinions on the proposals at an open meeting held at the Town Hall last night.

Only about seven people turned up and there were no serious objections made.

The proposals are expected to be discussed further at next Monday night's meeting of Town Council.

Taxes in Picton

Last week, we reported that the residential mill rate had gone up 9.4% in Deseronto and the commercial mill rate was up 12.2%.

Now, it's Picton's turn.

Picton Town Council set its budget and the residential increase is 8.2%, the commercial increase is 10%.

In Picton, the owner of a residential property valued at $10,000 will pay $452.80 in taxes this year, compared with $418.10 last year. The owner of a commercial property, also valued at $10,000, will pay $532.70, an increase of $52.

As in other municipalities, the major part of the increase is blamed on education levies.

In Napanee, for example, a taxpayer with a $5,000 assessment was facing a jump in taxes of $65, $50 of which was for education purposes.

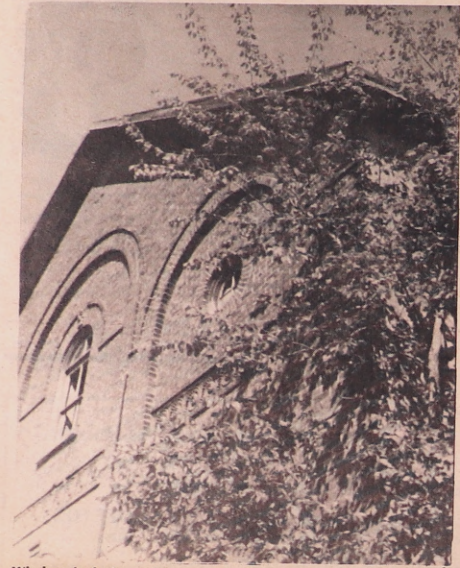

Well ... they asked for it!

Back in February, Bell Canada asked for comment from subscribers concerning its proposal to raise monthly residential main phone rates by 23 per cent and business service rates by 35 per cent.

Well, they got comments!

Canadian Press reported these: ... 'Bell has become less efficient and should not be allowed to pass on the resultant expense to subscribers' ... 'Bell Canada is contributing to the killing of free enterprise in this country' ... 'Should I need an operator for any sort of emergency, I could die before she answers. All I get is an increase in rates and a very large decrease in service'.

And those comments are nothing, compared to the ones we hear in the country when we try to get a long-distance call through on an 8-party line!

Getting back to nature aim of moving Sandbanks sites

Since 1972, planning has been underway for the combining of the two provincial parks ... Outlet and Sandbanks.

A preliminary master plan was publicized in the summer of 1977 and, now, a master plan has been approved by James A. Auld, Ontario's Minister of Natural Resources.

The two parks will be combined into one and the name Sandbanks will be kept for the new combined park. It will be slightly smaller than first planned, will be designated as a natural environment park and will accommodate a capacity of about 1,800 campers and 6,500 day users.

The plan calls for planning, operation and management of the two parks on a co-ordinated basis.

Developments at the new park will be in four stages, over a 20-year period.

In the first phase, 200 campsites will be developed in the intervening sector, a trail system will link campsites with the beach, and 50 campsites in the old Sandbanks sector will be removed.

In the second phase, 113 campsites will be deleted from the Outlet sector and 111 new campsites set up. A start will be made on a bicycle and pedestrian trail system.

In phase 3, day use areas will be developed and in Phase 4 the trail system will be completed.

The removal of some of the old campsites from the sand dunes area is aimed at assisting restoration to a more natural state of those areas of ecological importance that may have been disturbed by past activities.

The master plan will be subject to review every five years.

Taylor wants help on school taxes

'Declining enrolments have had devastating effects on the budgets of these two school boards in my riding,' James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward/Lennox said when urging Hon. Bette Stephenson, Minister of Education, to give special financial consideration to the very serious problems facing property owners in Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington Counties.

'Both counties are suffering a much higher rate of decline in enrolment than the average for the province and the combined effect of the decline over the past two years has been much greater in rural areas than in areas of the province with large urban centres to counteract the decline,' Taylor said.

'It is becoming increasingly more difficult for families to make ends meet and the last thing we need is to be hit over the head with higher taxes.'

Taylor has been in close touch with the boards of education and arranged for the Ministry staff to review the budgets of both school boards.

'These staff reports are presently on the Minister's desk,' Mr. Taylor said, 'and I will continue to press for special financial help for the people I represent.'

Librarian Stella Carney had a full house on Saturday afternoon in the children's section of the Picton Public Library as excited youngsters and their parents crowded in to watch a special event. To find out what it was, take a look at page 11.

EDITORIAL

May is a time of reassurance

April is a fickle month...warm sunshine one day and cold, wet winds the next.

April is full of promises, but it is in May that the promises come true and the whole world comes alive again with spring.

Over this past weekend, the Quinte area burst into bloom.

We had had indications before. The tulips were making rainbows in the breeze and the wild flowers were covering the floors of the woodlots.

But now, the lilacs are blooming, filling the air with their fragrance.

The fruit trees are showing off their pink and white blossoms.

It is sheer delight when you wander through the bush and come across an old, neglected apple orchard. The people who once planted and tended the trees are dead and gone but the trees still add their beauty to the season.

May is a time of reassurance.

While we human beings are blundering along, making our mistakes and doing harm to the world around us, old Mother Nature is still in there pitching.

The world is still alive.

We still have a chance to keep it that way.

Let's make sure we do.

The world fish catch per capita has dropped about 11 percent since 1970.

Bird's Eye View

Sat and watched Rainy the Veck cry while his followers cheered on the boob tube the other night. That was one vote I weren't about to predict. The sly old bugger had his ballot worded so I'd of thought twice about how to vote if I'd of had a vote.

Can't say I blame some of them Kebeckers for being upset with what they've had to put up with. Remember stopping to say hello to some kessin' kin in Montreal - feller in a big insurance company I think. Been there 10 or 15 years but he didn't talk no French. Anyways, when we left his place we asked for some directions to get out of town. He says, 'You go down Pope Pious Street to Ninth Bridge and turn right.' We spent over half an hour driving back and forth looking for them places, until we cottoned on to the fact that he'd called them by English names. Elma get's out the pocket book and we soon figured that 'Pont Neuf' were ninth bridge and we was on our way. Point was that feller just refused to accept anything at all in French.

Now if'n you keep handing somebody the dirty end of the stick all the time, pretty soon you're going to get your outhouse tipped over.

I were thinking that last weeked at the Mohawk Landing Celebration. Come next year it'll of been 200 years since they left some pretty good land in the Mohawk Valley to come up to

Napanee school bands will get special scrolls

James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward/Lennox, is having special scrolls prepared by the Provincial Government to honour the musicians and instructors from the Napanee District Secondary School who placed first in a Canada-wide competition in Ottawa recently. Nineteen musicians and two instructors from the Napanee area attended Canada's National Stage Bands Festival where the Jazz Rock Combo came up with a first over all other Canadian school bands. The Senior Stage Band placed third.

Mr. Taylor has been instrumental in the past in obtaining financial help for the bands and helped secure a provincial grant of $1,150 to help defray expenses while the bands competed in Ottawa.

Canada with their Limey friends. Looking around the reserve and seeing some good houses sure is different from a few years ago. I got to thinking over what changed the government that for years had sat back and patted them on the head, give them a little handout then took away some more of their land.

Not long ago if'n some Indian stood up and demanded his due the Mounties would soon come and crack his skull. What I can figure is that now they've learned to use the news and fight the government folks right where they hates to be - in the limelight.

Anyways, I sure hope my outhouse don't get tipped over in all the goings on.

Phil Dodds never really retired from writing. A newsman for many years, he is still clattering away at his typewriter, turning out books now.

LIBRARY NOTES

The library would like to thank those persons who have donated so many fiction paperbacks, in 'like-new' condition. Our 'Harlequin' readers are especially appreciative.

New fiction additions are Robert Ludlum's 'The Rhinemann Exchange' and Agatha Christie's 'Thirteen at Dinner'.

Biography readers will enjoy 'Errol Flynn; the Untold Story'. Antique buffs will like 'Silver; an Illustrated Guide to Collecting Silver'. There is also Dr. MacDonald's book 'Undergoing Surgery'.

For the kids, 'Squib' by Nina Bowden and 'Smoky House' by Elizabeth Gouge are available. For the little ones a 'Puss in Boots' pop-up book is in.

Seniors shouldn't sit back and rock

By TERRY SPRAGUE

Phil Dodds is retired, has been since 1969, and is in his early seventies. A decrepit, old man sitting in a lawn chair outside a nursing home, his cane at the ready???

Drive past his flamingo-pink frame house in Cherry Valley and you are apt to find him walking at a brisk pace from flower bed to flower bed, trimming his grass or refilling the bird feeders. You may find him at his typewriter, pondering the contents of another book.

If he isn't home, look for him at horticulture meetings, the Prince Edward County Fair, or perhaps judging a flower show somewhere.

'Senior citizens shouldn't sit back in their rocking chairs. Euchre and bingos are fine in moderation. Older people have a lot of experience behind them and can contribute a great deal. People stay young by being active,' Phil says.

If his theory is correct, then certainly he will never grow old.

'There is a lot of advertising of Participation,' says Phil. 'I have never needed to follow the activities suggested as they come naturally through gardening, tree planting and normal outdoor activity.'

'I do a few hundred bends while planting, pulling weeds, cultivating, and never realize that I am doing the same things many people force themselves to do. Best of all, it is done in the open air, with all its benefits. While beautifying, I am also physically benefitting myself,' emphasizes Phil.

A LITTLE MORE BEAUTIFUL

Phil's motto has been to make the world a little better and a little more beautiful because you have lived in it.

'Remember that we do not actually own anything here on earth, but are just trustees and we have certain responsibilities. We do not actually own the things we call possessions, we came into the world with nothing and we take nothing when we leave it.'

Although Phil Dodds is retired from the Picton Gazette where he worked for 40 years, he has continued his popular Philing In column, a collection of gardening tips, opinions and comments.

Often his comments on controversial subjects draw sharp criticism from the reading public, but he seems to favour his type of response since it 'stimulates people into thinking for themselves and getting ideas and thoughts out in the open where they may be considered.'

Phil now has a column in the Trentonian, and it's all about gardening. 'The Amateur Gardener' has appeared weekly for three years now and has resulted in numerous calls and queries about gardening.

His busy life includes 25 years as sec. retary-treasurer of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society during which he played a leading role in the erection of the County Agriculture and Recreation Centre; has served for five years as chairman of the Marine Society and organizes the Annual Mariners Service at South Bay every August.

He has been a charter member of the local curling club, several lodges, service clubs, the CN IB and a booster for just about anything he felt was good for the county.

SELF-TAUGHT TYPIST

At his typewriter (he is a self-taught typist), he has written 'A History of Fairs and Exhibitions, 1792 to 1967' during the time he was president of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies; 'A History of Horticultural Societies, 1834 to 1973'; and has penned a number of pamphlets and brochures.

Two years ago, he organized a group of 12 Athol Township Seniors and secured a New Horizons grant for the publication of 'Athol ... Stories of the Township'.

This is a 463-page, well-illustrated book and has 'sold itself' so rapidly that only a few remain. Many stories are of a general nature recalling the past.

'It is the only book I know of that has sold so well without any type of promotion,' comments Phil. 'We may reprint, but we may be satisfied with the 1,200 copies.'

A similar book again is now being contemplated, and Phil is presently collecting stories for his new venture.

Phil Dodds has never been married. 'Never had time! Time may be running out when it comes to years, but I hope to stay happy and healthy through gardening and get a lot more things done. I wish I had retired a little earlier. There is so much to do.'

For almost 200 years a festival called the Fiesta of the Radishes has been held each December 23 in Oaxaca, Mexico.

There'll be day camp this year

Deseronto is going to have a day camp again this year, after a break of two years.

'We had a day camp in 1977 and 1978,' Jack Layfield, director of recreation said, 'and during that time there were where from 50 to 60 children attending.'

So they are holding one again this year with the help of an Experience '80 grant from the Ministry of Culture and Recreation.

It will be at the Deseronto elementary school, from July 7 to August 15, three days a week for five hours a day and will be open to any school age children.

The grant pays for about 75% of the wages for the camp leaders. The Recreation Committee comes up with the rest which includes the other 25% of the wages, three to four days at a leadership training camp for the leaders in June and supplies to be used in the day camp.

HAPPENINGS

On Friday evening, Mrs. Clara Jackson and granddaughter, Marlene Lindsay, and Mrs. Beryl Herman left Picton on a Franklin Coach Tour for Wheeling West Virginia. They attended the Jamboree with Ronnie Milsap, the feature attraction. There were also dog races and a disco and tour of the countryside. All had a lovely time and returned home on Monday evening.

Fred Suggash of Peterborough spent a few days at the home of Mrs. Kay Hood where he visited his son, Trevor.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Svecik of Bramalea were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don MacMillan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Provins visited his cousin, Herb C. Thompson, over the weekend.

Mrs. T. Linton and daughter, Mrs. N. Howlett, visited Miss N. Thompson at Quinte Beach Nursing Home, Sunday afternoon.

On the weekend of May 10, Don and Lorrie Miller of Tyendinaga Reserve attended the Eleventh Native Baha'i Council which was held on Caughnawaga Reserve near Montreal. Delegates from parts of Quebec, Six Nations Reserve, Kettle Point, Cambridge and Akwasane gave reports of the activities in their regions. One of the highlights of the Council was a display of Indian dances complete with costume. Potluck meals were served and considerable time was given to socializing.

QUICHE

Quiche is an adaptable dish, easily varied to suit whatever ingredients you have on hand.

Simply follow the basic directions and use a total of 1 to 1 and 1/2 cups of 'filling' ingredients, such as cheese, cooked meat or vegetables.

9-inch pie shell
4 eggs
1 and 1/2 cups light cream or evaporated milk
3/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
Seasoning and fillings as suggested below.

Salmon Quiche: seasonings, 1 tsp lemon juice and 1/2 tsp Worcestershire sauce; Filling, 1 7-oz. can salmon, drained and flaked, 1/2 cup diced celery, and 1/3 cup chopped onion, sauteed in 1 tsp butter.

Cheese 'n Onion Pie: seasoning, 1 tsp dry mustard; filling, 1 and 1/2 cups thinly sliced onion rings and 2 cups Swiss cheese shredded.

Quiche Lorraine: seasoning, 1/8 tsp nutmeg and dash cayenne pepper; filling, 6 slices crisp bacon crumbled, 1 cup Swiss cheese shredded and 1/4 cup green onion chopped.

Shrimp Quiche: seasoning, 1 tsp tarragon; filling, 1 cup cooked shrimp or crabmeat, 3/4 cup cheese shredded, 1/4 cup onion chopped and 1/4 cup green pepper chopped.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Partially bake pie shell on lowest rack in oven for 8 minutes. Remove from oven and reduce heat to 350 degrees F.

Lightly beat eggs, then add cream, salt, pepper and desired seasonings. Spread filling ingredients in partially baked shell. Pour in egg mixture.

Bake at 350 degrees F for 35 to 40 minutes or until a knife inserted near the centre comes out clean.

Makes four to six servings.

Tarragon, is a European species of sagebrush.

UNE AT THE MUSEUM

Among events planned for the Hastings County Museum, 257 Bridge Street in Belleville, in the near future are:

A display of baptismal gowns, Bibles, old pictures and christening cups on June 1.

On June 20, the Royal Ontario Museumobile will be at Glanville to exhibit Canadian Fossils.

On June 25th, you can walk through an early station master's office, see the Iron Horse Display telling the story of the railroad in Hastings County, and have fun operating a modern model railroad system.

From June 1 to August 31, museum hours will be Tuesday to Sunday from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., closed Mondays except on holiday Mondays.

NEW DEPUTY REEVE

Picton has a new deputy reeve ... Councillor Marilyn Robins. She was elected to succeed Roy Wight whose seat was declared vacant. Mr. Wight is recovering from a stroke.

Another member of council, Bessie Ward, who missed her third consecutive meeting due to illness, has been granted a month's leave of absence.

IS THAT SO???

"We have just come through the best year in Ontario's history," the Belleville intelligencer has quoted Hon. Frank Miller, Ontario's reasurer, as saying at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward/Lennox Progressive Conservative Association in Bloomfield, recently.

If last year was the best in the opinion of the Provincial reasurer, the Province hasn't much to brag about!

TREE PLANTING

The Napanee Region Conservation Authority has ordered trees to be planted in 980 ... white pine, colorado spruce, Austrian pine, cedar, weeping willow ... ranging from 2 to 8 feet in height.

The landscape stock will be used mainly at the Conservation office, and at Kingsford, Portland, Newburgh and Napanee Conservation areas.

VEGETABLE STORAGE

Financial assistance in the amount of $203,455, under a federal program, has been given to Produce Processors Ltd. of Trenton, for the construction of vegetable storage under the Fruit and Vegetable Storage Construction Financial Assistance Program.

In making the announcement, Ed Lumley, MP for Stormont-Dundas, emphasized the past and continued success of the Fruit and Vegetable Storage Construction Financial Assistance Program.

The availability of funds under this federal government program has greatly improved the marketability of fruit and vegetables to Canadian consumers.

The success of this program can be seen by the many benefits which have accrued to many sectors of the agricultural community, and especially to producers in enabling them to provide Canadian produce of excellent quality over a greatly extended period.

TREES COST MORE

As a result of the first increase in 28 years, private landowners who order forest tree seedlings from Ontario Government nurseries on or after June 1 will be charged more for them.

The old price of one cent a tree, in effect since 1952, has been raised to 2.5 cents a tree. There will be an additional charge of $10 per order.

The Kingston District office of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has a requirement for a new vehicle. In response to an appeal sent out to all Lions Clubs in the district, the Deseronto Club came through in its usual generous fashion where the welfare of the visually-impaired is concerned. Parents want religion taught but say course should change

Religious education in the schools is still pretty much of a 'hot potato' ... some parents for it and some against.

The Ontario Ministry of Education has decreed that there must be religious education in Ontario's schools... but has given little, if any, guidelines as to what should be included in the courses or who they should be taught.

Parents at Pinecrest School in Bloomfield have had a good opportunity to state their opinions.

Last October, a committee was set up to receive presentations from the community, to look at present courses on religious education, to examine religious education courses offered at other education institutions, to prepare a report on its findings and to make recommendations to the Pinecrest School Council from these findings.

Reg Windatt is chairman of the committee which includes principal of the school D. Rainey, Doug Blower, Joanna Buckingham, Janet Jeffery, Marian Sly and Garry Molyneux.

The committee received input from 10 presentations by five parents, five ministers, and one from the co-ordinator of Religious Education from the Roman Catholic Board of Education.

Also included in the discussions at the 14 meetings held by the committee were numerous letters received. Each committee member sat in on at least one religious education class of each of the existing programs offered at Pinecrest school.

D. Blower attended two conferences on morals and values education.

The committee has now made the following report.

The school community wants religious education to be part of the school curriculum, but most ministers felt that teaching religious education in schools was not their area of responsibility and expertise. So the committee recommended that the present program be continued for 1979-80.

Parents expressed concerns related to the present program so the committee recommended that it be revised and modified and that a curriculum committee be struck, made up of teachers and parent representatives, under the supervision of the intendent of education.

The committee also reported that parents want to be better informed on courses being taught in areas of Human Growth and Development and in Religious Education. It was the committee's recommendation that course outlines with approximate dates of when each topic is being covered be sent home to parents and that parents be encouraged to sit in on all classes.

Hydro makes settlements

Approximately 90 % of the property settlements for the Lennox to Cherrywood 500 kV transmission line in the west section have been completed, Ontario Hydro reports.

Property administrators will be contacting land owners who expressed an interest during negotiations to licence back land, purchased for the right-of-way.

Under the terms and conditions of Hydro's agricultural licence, a former owner may licence back the right-of-way, owned by Hydro,

There was a huge turnout for the annual fireworks display in the park at Northport, put on by the Sophiasburgh Fire Department. Firemen were busy in the afternoon setting up the display. As the evening approached and cars starting streaming into the park, Clinton Carter and Murney Lindsay passed the hat ... a fireman's helmet ... making a collection to help defray the costs. Another money-maker was the refreshment booth. Lionel Gorsline was busy cooking hot dogs.

Not the time for S Fredericksburg to go further in debt

On page one there is a report of action taken by James Taylor, MPP, Prince Edward/Lennox, to get Ontario's Progressive-Conservative government to give school boards in his riding special financial assistance.

He's been busy on another front also.

'A crisis of confidence and credibility faces the people of South Fredericksburgh', he said. 'It was for this reason that I asked the Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs to work closely with the Municipal Council in a co-operative effort to restore accountability to the municipal administration.'

'Over the months I have been in constant touch with a broad cross-section of the people of South Fredericksburgh, including the Reeve, the Ratepayers' Association and a number of interested citizens who have expressed a deep-seated concern over the financial viability of the municipality.'

He went on to say that he had heard from those in favour and those opposed to the proposed community building.

'I have discussed the legal and financial commitments of the municipal corporation with the Minister of Culture and Recreation and the Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs,' he said. 'Having regard to those commitments, everything possible is being done to lighten the financial burden on the township. It is not the time to go further into debt.'

'Hard-working people have a right to know where they stand, where their taxes are going and what burden they are assuming as residents and ratepayers of a municipality. I have been assured by the Ministry of Intergovernmental Affairs that the municipal council is co-operating closely with the Ministry staff in a sincere effort to restore confidence and sound administration to South Fredericksburgh.'

CHAIRMAN'S REMARKS

I wish to thank the Executive, Managers, Coaches and all who have helped make the 1979/80 hockey season the success that it has been. As in any volunteer organization, it is only with the help of people such as yourselves that success can be achieved.

The children and young adults enrolled in the Deseronto Minor Hockey Program have had an enjoyable season due to your efforts.

Special thanks must be extended to the Royal Canadian Legion for their sponsorship of our O.M.H.A. Pee Wees and their generous financial assistance in supplying transportation for that team in their bid for an Ontario Championship.

In this day of ever increasing costs it is the game of hockey which has become the most expensive sport in which a child can participate. Ice rental costs alone in this season represented over $100.00 per child enrolled in the program.

It must be realized by every responsible adult that the most significant contribution which we can make is to provide direction and guidance to the future generation through sport and organized leadership programs such as hockey, ball, scouts and all other child oriented activities.

It should be the concern of every municipality that a fair percentage of the tax dollar be invested in the citizen of the future. Don't complain about vandalism, stamp it out by providing our youth with something to do. Don't complain about the actions of our young people until you can truthfully say, 'I donated my time and offered my help.' Don't build an arena with your tax dollar and then forget it's there except to overcharge those young people who want to use the facility.

FOSTER: In loving memory of a dear mother, HELEN FOSTER, who passed away May 22, 1967.

Dear Lord, please take a message To our dear mother up above Tell her how much we miss her And give her all our love. We think of her in silence And often speak her name But all that's left to answer Is a picture in a frame.

You gave us strength to carry on And courage to face the blow But what it meant to lose her No one will ever know.

Sadly missed an still so lovingly remembered by daughters Sandy, Shirley, Naomi and Roxanne and sons Gordon and Barrett. All of Calgary, Alberta.

Egg on your face can be good for you

What have eggs to do with your skin and hair?

The Ontario Egg Producers Marketing Board has sent along these tips for letting eggs revitalize your hair and skin now that winter has gone and left its marks behind it.

Try preparing your own egg shampoo.

Beat three or four egg yolks with half a glass of lukewarm water. Strain and use in place of soap or shampoo.

Always rinse hair in lukewarm water. Hot water will cook the egg.

If you prefer, use regular soap or shampoo for the first lathering. Rinse and use the two egg yolks for the second lathering. Rinse well.

If your hair is damaged or suffers from dried ends, try this protein treatment.

Since this mixture tends to have a slight lightening effect, it is best to use on light to medium hair colours.

Concert will aid Quinte addiction group

Members of the Quinte Addiction Network are delighted that Canadian recording star Sylvia Tyson has agreed to perform in Belleville in support of the network's public education program.

Miss Tyson, whose accomplishments in the entertainment world are legion, was selected by the Addictions Network for the concert because, "she truly represents the ability to make choices about lifestyle and habits within a world where pressures to be part of the party group are heavy." Co-ordinator of the Addictions month program, Gail Manion, says "the network has attempted this month to promote awareness of one's personal responsibilities in the fight against addictions."

According to Ms. Manion, the Choices theme also promotes the need to consider "our personal responsibilities for the promotion of healthy informed choices in our homes, our schools, at work and in society. We feel that Sylvia Tyson does represent this theme extremely well."

Sylvia Tyson will be appearing on Friday May 30 at 8 p.m. at Centennial Secondary School on Palmer Road in Belleville.

Whip two or three eggs to a fluffy consistency, add one tablespoon pure lemon juice. Blend and add to clean, damp hair.

Rinse well after 20 minutes with cool to tepid water.

For a really clean rinse, add two tablespoons of vinegar to one pint of warm water. Add a few drops of your favourite cologne.

Use as a final rinse for shiny, manageable hair with the light scent of cologne - and there's no vinegar smell.

Pamper yourself with a super natural facial mask made with egg yolks. Simply beat two yolks with a tablespoon of water and spread evenly over the face and neck.

Let dry, and then rinse with lukewarm water. Pat dry.

Ladies Aid and W.M.S. meets

The Presbyterian Ladies Aid and WMS met at the home of Mrs. Dorothy McCullough on Tuesday, May 13.

The meeting was opened with a hymn and prayer. The president Mrs. Nikki Loney, called on Mrs. McCullough for Ladies Aid devotions. She spoke on a reading called 'Praying Women' also from a book called 'Mama's Way'.

Following another hymn, Mrs. Marion Trenholm read a story from the book, 'Getting the Most out of Life', called 'Every child has a gift', for the mission portion of the meeting.

Mrs. Mabel Moore had a short reading called 'A Batch of Cookies'. Mrs. Stella MacMillan read a poem she composed herself called 'A Missionary's Plea'. All were very interesting and enjoyed by everyone.

Minutes were read and roll call taken, with 8 members present.

Further plans were made for the June 14th 'Mother Goose Tea'. Theme will be nursery rhymes. There will be a bake table, crafts, fish pond and tea table, and it will be held at the church.

Next month's meeting and pot luck picnic will be at Centennial Park on June 14, weather permitting.

The meeting closed with Mizpah Benediction and refreshments were served by the hostess and committee.

mothers and babies

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS

When a child seems spoiled as a result of too much permissiveness, it may not be because you demand too little but because you are timid, feel guilty about what you ask the child to do, or even unconsciously encourage your child to be a little tyrant.

A child knows when he is being naughty or rude—even when his parents try to close their eyes to it. He may feel guilty and want to be stopped, but if you do not correct him, he may behave worse and worse. If you gently firm up your discipline, you may be delighted to find that your child becomes not only better behaved but much happier.

It's not unusual for a baby to learn to stand before he learns to sit down again. For a few days or a week he may get stuck on his feet—a frustrating and fatiguing position to be in. Until he learns to "un-stand," try to keep him sitting longer by playing with him and giving him things to keep him occupied while sitting.

Rain dampens but doesn't stop Mohawk Landing celebrations

It was an activity-filled weekend on the Tyendinaga Reserve as the Mohawks celebrated the 1784 landing of their ancestors on the Bay of Quinte shores.

Consumers make sure electrical fuses are right

Thousands of caution labels are being distributed across Ontario by electrical and fire authorities warning customers to use proper fuses to 'prevent fires'.

These stickers are designed to be affixed to panelboards and urge people to use only heat sensitive fuses marked 'D' or 'P' for electric furnaces, dryers, ranges, air conditioners, water and baseboard heaters. This caution is a follow-up to a number of pamphlets issued in the last couple of years by Ontario Hydro.

As a result of the concern expressed by the Canadian electrical authorities, Canadian Standards Association has made available to the regulatory authorities this label in an effort to warn the public of fire dangers in fuse boxes.

'We have received over 10 reports of fires in the last year, in fuse boxes which have not been confined to the panelboard,' explains Bob White, CSA's assistant manager, Audits and Investigations Section.

Most of the fires occurred in the pull-out section of the panelboard which holds 20 to 60 amp. fuses. These are used for water heaters, clothes dryers, ranges and electric heaters. This overheating was probably caused by moisture, loose fuses, loose connections and/or overloading circuits with fuses of improper ratings. No reports of fires where heat sensitive fuses were used, have been received.

The 'D' and 'P' fuses are heat sensitive and will open at a temperature before damage is caused to the fuse holder. It has been a requirement of the Canadian Electrical Code for the last 8 years that heat sensitive fuses be used in circuits with a high heating and cycling load.

'D' fuses, in both cartridge and plug shapes, have been available for many years. However, fuses marked 'P' are relatively new.

Cartridge fuses shaped like a cylinder, marked 'P', will be available this summer. The screw-in plug fuses marked 'P' are not expected to be on the market until 1981.

The 'D' means time delay and 'P' stands for panelboard. Some appliances such as some air conditioners require the time delay feature because the initial starting load is very high and could blow an ordinary fuse.

Rain on Sunday put a damper on plans for the customary reenactment of the landing by canoe, but the ceremonies were held in Christ Church.

A special service was addressed by Rev. Dr. Adam Cuthand, director of the Anglican Church's Native Affairs Committee.

On display, during the service, was the silver communion service presented by Queen Anne.

The Mohawks of Tyendinaga came to the Quinte area following the American Revolution. They remained loyal to the British monarchy.

The Band had better luck with the weather on Saturday, when a number of activities took place.

One of these was a craft show at the Quinte Mohawk School.

Visitors had the opportunity to sample the famous corn soup ... a long-time delicacy.

Here's what the youngsters were watching at the Picton Library on Saturday afternoon ... a puppet show brought to them courtesy of the Lake Ontario Regional Library Board. Andrea Nevitt and Brad Dalcourt were the manipulators behind the scenes. Lisa Segal was narrator for the two plays, 'Peter Rabbit' and 'King Midas'. All three human actors are students at Loyalist Collegiate in Kingston. They will be putting on a show in Deseronto on June 14.

THE WAY WE WERE

The postcard, shown above, was given to the Scanner by Ray Brant of the Bayshore Road.

It shows Deseronto's St. George Street from Edmon Street south to the Bay, back before the turn of the century.

It was taken from the corner where Hubbles Coin Wash is now.

Mr. Brant identified the buildings in the picture as follows: starting with the store on the left with the awning over the window, Roach and Whitney Meat Market, Ike Allin, funeral director; Mason Clothing Store, Mrs. Murphy's dad's shoe repair (previously Terrian's Corner Grocery and Clothing Main and St. George Streets).

Mr. Brant could not recall the name of the first store on the right but the others were Cusperd Grocery Store, Detlor's Bakery, a furniture store, Fraser's Ice Cream Parlour, where Fina is today.

Across on Main Street was the railroad station.

He also mentioned that Norris tailor shop and Paddy Hayes cobbler shop were on St. George, going up from Edmon Street and that, where the Gospel Hall is now, there was a big hotel made of wood.

Another postcard he has shows the present Town Hall when it was the Bank of Montreal. At that time there was a farmers' market behind the building on Edmon Street.

It was once illegal for an Englishman to entertain an Irish minstrel.

Detlor Bakery popular place

You might think a bake shop would be a pretty hot place to be on a summer afternoon, but back before (and after) the turn of the century, the bakery on St. George Street in Deseronto was a popular place ... it had an ice cream parlor in the front!

Blanche Detlor, who was assistant to the town clerk for many years, remembers the bakery well. It belonged to her father and mother-in-law, B.L. Detlor and his wife, the former Winnifred Moore.

The ovens were in behind the bakery, she recalls, and the Detlors lived in the adjoining house.

They used to have two wagons delivering the bread and there was one boy in town they all knew as Bunny ... he kept getting into the buns on the wagon.

Blanche provided the Scanner with the accompanying pictures.

The top one shows the interior of the bakery. The girl behind the counter is Winnifred Moore (later Mrs. Detlor) whose parents owned the bake shop at that time.

Pretrial August

Robert James Claxton, 31, of 16 Main Street, Picton, who has been charged with four counts of indecent assault on males, appeared in Provincial Court, Criminal Division, in Picton, Tuesday morning.

His counsel requested, and received, a preliminary trial date of August 12.

They didn't get too far in that stolen yellow car

Jean McCornock, assistant at the Picton Animal Hospital, has been parking her car in the hospital parking lot for the past six years, without any problems.

But Tuesday morning, about eleven o'clock, she was startled and rushed to the back window when Dr. R. Clapp called out to tell her someone was driving her car out of the lot.

She had left the keys in the car, a yellow Camaro, and three youths took off in it, smashing a light when they backed up in a great rush, and heading off down the hill and on out to Highway 49.

'We were on the phone to the police before they were out of sight,' she said.

Picton Police and the Ontario Provincial Police were alerted.

Deseronto's Chief of Police Norm Clark was out in the force's new cruiser. It has a red bar on top but does not yet carry a police sign on the side.

He picked up the information on his radio network.

'I saw them pass the intersection of Highway 2, on Highway 49,' Chief Clark said, 'and I stopped them just before they got to Marysville.'

Apprehended and arrested for stealing a car were Wendy Wahlers, 16; Steve Grant, 16, and a 15-year-old male, all of Picton.

Likely to keep 4 installments

Although the Town of Deseronto would be in favour of paying the county tax levy in four installments instead of the present three installments, it doesn't look as if the change will be made.

Hastings County Council surveyed the 27 municipalities in its jurisdiction for pros and cons of the four installment suggestion, which would save the county considerable amount of interest on money borrowed to meet costs until municipal levies are received.

'Fifteen municipalities were opposed and seven in favour,' Reeve B. Johnson told Deseronto Town Council at Monday night's meeting. 'Five, including Deseronto, have not responded.'

Deseronto has now received confirmation from the county as to the amount the town would save if the four-installment payment was introduced, and council decided to vote in favour of the change.

The anti-noise by-law, was another item on Monday night's agenda.

Councillor C. Ziemann wanted to know what stage the by-law has reached. It went through the town solicitor some months ago.

'The area where I live is inhabited by about 15 dogs that bark all night,' he said, and Councillor R. Cole agreed... 'No question about it, there's a problem,' he said.

4 x 4's are fun — if you enjoy digging out of mudholes

By TERRY SPRAGUE

Four-wheel drive vehicles have been in the news a lot lately, and the majority of comments have been anything but favourable.

Conservation Authorities and local parks are tearing their hair out by the roots in an effort to come up with a way to prevent owners of these vehicles from chewing up sensitive areas.

Hikers find them on their walking trails, land owners often discover them on their property.

But are all owners of four-wheel drive vehicles to be viewed with contempt?

I was invited, as a journalist, one recent weekend by two Belleville four-wheel drive owners to accompany them in their vehicles to the Millbridge area, north of Bannockburn, on what was to become my very first off-roading experience. And one which I wasn't soon to forget.

Actually the term 'off-roading' was a misnomer in this case, since we never left the road, but stayed on long forgotten trails that once were roads decades ago.

If it sounds like I was bribed into being an accomplice to willful and irreparable damage to the environment, quite the opposite became true.

'It is my feeling,' explained Chris Christensen, owner of Belleville's Midway Motors Ltd., 'that we are doing no more damage to the environment than what has already been done by the roads being there.'

GETTING AWAY FROM IT ALL

Chris enjoys the outdoors and its inhabitants, and he and his friend Steve Leonard often use their 4 x 4's as a means to get to it and away from the noise of traffic, people and every day living.

Although largely deserted of human inhabitants, the duo frequently run into the occasional individual, usually residents of the area.

'The people we meet are always so interesting. We always make it a point to stop and gab for a while, and asking them about the history of the area seems to bring out the youth in these people as they recall events and old memories.'

WILDERNESS SAFETY STANDARDS NEEDED

Over the past few years, there have been a number of wilderness tragedies in Ontario. During the past three years alone, there have been some 15 fatalities in outdoor programs. The most prominent were St. John's School, Camp Wanipitei and the Outward Bound.

At the same time, there has been a virtual explosion of wilderness programs, in the winter as well as in the summer. Indeed, the Ministry of Industry and Tourism is now promoting wilderness programs.

Richard Johnston, NDP Member of the Provincial Legislature from Scarborough West, thinks something more should be done in the way of standards of safety applicable to wilderness activities.

He has introduced a Private Member's bill called the Ontario Wilderness Guides Association Act.

Under the proposed bill, the Ontario Wilderness Guides Association would be recognized as an association established for the purpose of promoting and maintaining standards of professional guiding, emphasizing experience, skill development, safe practices, preservation of the natural environment and leadership in order to ensure safe, rewarding adventures of a wilderness nature for the public.

The bill would further provide that the Lieutenant Governor in Council might make regulations respecting standards of safety applicable to wilderness activities by adopting all or part of the standards established by the Association.

There is no attempt in the bill to force organizations to adopt the standards or to inflict penalties on those who do not.

But, Mr. Johnston points out, with consistent standards, carrying statutory weight, Coroners' juries would at last be able to make informed judgments in terms of responsibility or negligent behaviour, providing a strong basis for civil suits.

MPP Johnston is to be congratulated for bringing this matter to public attention.

Nobody ... certainly not a small child ... should be sent out into the 'wilderness' without proper supervision by a highly-trained guide.

Let's hope the Ontario Government gives the proposal the consideration it deserves.

Bird's
Eye
View

That there volcano blowing up down in the States sure were something weren't it? Don't seem right somehow, having a volcano erupt in this day and age, it's the sort of thing that happened back in the olden days, and the way folks talk nowadays you'd figure they'd have gotten it organized better.

Anyways, she sure blew up good when she went. Must of been real hard for the folks round there to believe. I can sort of sympathize with the old guy who said he'd been there eighty four years and weren't about to move out now.

You know, then folks as lived in that real old city - Pompous or whatever it were called must of figured it the same way. They sure got fixed though didn't they. Reckon them historical experts is still digging 'em up.

Anyways, makes you realize that you can't fool with mother nature. When I looked up at the sky over my farm and seen how hazy it were on account of the dust, it sure made me think. Course over our way, it's kind of hard to tell which is volcanic dust and what comes from the cement plant, and that kind of spoils the wonderment. Somehow it's kind of hard to get the fear of God in the force of nature, when you have to stop and look at dust to see if'n she come from across the bay or across the continent.

Seen in the paper the other day where they're fiddling around adding cement dust to animal feed as a supplement. Some scientist somewhere reckons his stock were growing faster and producing better when they was eating the dust along with their feed. Well, all I got to say, is that the cattle in Prince Edward should oughter be bigger and better than anybody else's at that rate, and I sure ain't seen much difference on the few times Elma talks me into going out of the county.

Still, I can't say as I'm what you call an unbiased witness. I don't hold with feeding no chemicals that I wouldn't want to eat myself. Figger if'n I feed 'em to the stock, sooner or later I'll be eating 'em myself, one way or whole pile of stuff going down folks' gullets that were never intended to pass that way.

Then there's all the stuff that's getting in the air and water. I were reading about the meeting they had in Kingston about the Great Lakes, and how one guy figgers that the pollution is linked to this hear Rey's syndrome - that new disease that kids are getting. Wouldn't surprise me one bit. Folks have to drink the water with all the junk in it. And then there's the fish. Now I seen where there's been some whippers caught lately, real big uns. There ain't many fishermen who don't eat what they catch, along with all the stuff in them that they shouldn't oughter eat. So I reckon there ain't no way out, not until folks smarten up anyways, and who knows, by that time it might be too late.

Getting out this newspaper is no picnic.

If we print jokes or cartoons, people say we are silly; if we don't they say we are too serious. If we clip things from other newspapers, we are just too lazy to write something for ourselves; if we don't, we are too egotistical. If we stick too close to our typewriter, we ought to be out hunting up the news; if we do get out, we ought to be back at the desk, working.

If we don't print some contributions, we don't appreciate good writing; if we do welcome a variety of contributions, the paper is full of junk. If we change a fellow's write-up, we are too critical; if we don't, we don't have any standards. Now then, someone is likely to say we swiped this from some other newspaper—we did! We swiped it from Canadian Pensioners Concerned...who swiped it from Haldimand Press...

Wow...THERE GOES A FLOCK OF 'EM!

About a century ago, it was not uncommon to see a flock of passenger pigeons 200 miles long, which included an estimated two billion of the birds. The breed is now totally extinct.

The ugly-looking brute Kevin Lawlor of 302 Dundas St., Deseronto is holding, is a channel cat, almost 11 pounds in weight and 29 inches long. He caught it Monday night, near the old marina about a mile down the Bay from Deseronto, with a rod and reel. 'He put up a good fight,' Mr. Lawlor said, 'and he broke the end off the pole.' The Lawlors said the fish is too greasy to eat but they kept it alive in a youngster's swimming pool overnight so the Scanner could take the picture. Then they put the fish back in the Bay. Mr. Lawlor reports that the fishing is good this year and that someone caught a 28 pound channel cat a week or so ago.

SOPHIASBURGH TAXES

Residential taxpayers in Sophiasburgh Township will have an increase of $3.39 per thousand dollars of assessment this year and commercial taxpayers will pay $5.17 more.

Administration costs and fire protection costs were held the same as last year, but roads will need $20,000 more this year.

The recreation budget has been cut by $500 and garbage collection is up to $22,000, compared with $18,000 last year.

STRIKE OVER

A few weeks ago, we reported that a strike at the Batawa plant of Bata shoes had resulted in a complete layoff of employees at the Picton plant.

Now the strike is over. Let's hope they get Picton people back on the job in a hurry. It's rough being out of work.

NEW DAM

A tangible link with the past... the Milford Dam... has been rebuilt and was officially opened last week.

Back in the early 1880's, a mill was built, just southeast of the present Milford bridge. It was in use until the 1920's. About 20 years ago, it burned down.

The Prince Edward Conservation Authority purchased the site and the surrounding area now comprises the Milford Mill Pond Conservation Area.

The mill dam was reconstructed to guarantee a valuable reservoir for water supply and fire protection.

HISTORIC TOUR

This Saturday, the Lennox and Addington Historical Society is sponsoring a tour of the Camden Valley along the Napanee River. Featured will be homes built before Confederation.

Tickets are available at the county Museum or can be purchased on the day of the tour at the Anglican Church parish hall.

RESCUE SERVICE

This summer, six students employed under the Inshore Rescue Program run by the Canadian Coast Guard will be stationed at Carrying Place ready to respond to any emergency in the Bay of Quinte.

Last year, students performed a total of 79 rescues in the Bay, from Deseronto to Proctor Point, three miles west of Presqu'ile Point.

The program began five years ago with two boats at two locations but the idea was so good that it was expanded to 8 locations, one of them in this area.

HOW YOUNG FOR KINDERGARTEN?

A final decision on the admissibility of under-aged children to kindergarten classes in Hastings County was expected to be made at last week's meeting of the Hastings County board of Education but instead, the board decided that any recommendations pertaining to admission of under-age children be deferred until written confirmation of status of the board is received from the Ministry of Education.

At present children enter kindergarten in September, even though their fifth birthday comes after Dec. 31.

WRONG DATE FOR PICNIC

In last week's Scanner we reported that the Presbyterian Ladies Aid and WMS pot luck picnic would be held in Centennial Park on June 24, weather permitting.

That date should have been June 24.

A joint executive meeting between the branch executive, the incoming executive and the executive of the Ladies Auxiliary was held last week under the chairmanship of Comrade Carson Jackson.

Last Sunday, several members of the branch and the Ladies Auxiliary, along with the respective Colour Guards took part in the Zone Drum Head Service at Wellington.

Coming up this Saturday morning, May 31, there is a special clean-up project taking place. Any member who can spend a couple of hours is requested to contact Comrade Carson Jackson.

Coming events:
Friday, May 30 is the season wrap up of this year's intersports. The final is being held in our own Branch, Br. 280. Trophies are to be awarded and a lunch will be served.
Saturday May 31 is a fun day at the Branch, starting with an open dart tournament for pairs. Registration is at 12 noon.
An open euchre tournament starts at 2:30. This will be followed by a fish fry at 5:00 p.m. with dancing to C.J. and Memphis at 9:00.
The fun day is open to all members and guests and citizens. Even if you don't take part in the sports, come along to the fish fry.
Finally, Zone golf will be at Marysville on June 14. See Comrade Dave Thomas for

GLAMOROUS GLAZED HAM

Ham, 'the king of meats', has graced banquet tables for centuries. Escoffier praised the princely dish and gave it a place in 'grande cuisine'.

In ancient Greece and Rome the pig travelled in illustrious company as the constant companion of Demeter, the goddess of agriculture. The gods preferred the altar on which swine flesh was smoked. So this made pigs the sacrifice of choice.

No elegant Athenian table was set without the noble ham. At the beginning of the meal ham was served to sharpen the appetite; at the end to restore it.

Glazed Ham

Place a fully cooked (ready-to-eat) whole or half ham, fat side up, on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer in thickest part of ham, being careful that it does not rest in fat or on bone. Add to water. Do not cover ham.

Roast in a 325 degree F oven, 12-15 minutes per pound for a whole ham, 18-20 minutes for a half ham, until the internal temperature reads 140 degrees F.

Thirty minutes before ham is done remove it from the oven. Score (cut) the fat of the partially heated ham in criss-cross fashion to make large diamonds.

Insert whole cloves into diamonds using a few to secure wedges of sliced orange to ham for a decorative touch.

Prepare glaze and brush part of it over ham. Return ham to 375 degrees F. oven for another hour of cooking. Brush frequently with remaining glaze.

From one pound of ham you can expect about three servings.

Orange Glaze

1/2 cup orange marmalade
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon prepared hot mustard

Mix orange marmalade, soy sauce and prepared hot mustard together in a small saucepan. Stir over low heat until spread melts. Use to glaze baked ham.

Apple Glaze

3/4 cup red apple jelly
2 teaspoons dry mustard
2 tablespoons apple juice

Melt jelly in a saucepan over low heat. Stir in mustard and apple juice. Spoon over the surface of the ham 2 or 3 times during the last 30-40 minutes of cooking time.

HAM HAWAIIAN

1/2 medium green pepper, chopped
2 stalks celery, finely sliced
1 lb. cooked ham (leftover), cut in cubes

1 can (14 ounces) pineapple chunks in their own juice
1 and 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard

1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon cider vinegar
2 cups cooked rice

Use non-stick pan if possible, or lightly oil frying pan.

Add green pepper, celery slices and ham cubes. Saute 5 minutes.

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Mix syrup, prepared mustard, soy sauce and cider vinegar. Stir into ham mixture.

Cook, stirring, 2 to 3 minutes. Add pineapple and heat through.

Serve over rice.

Makes four servings.

Old Timers enjoyed bus trip

The Deseronto Quinte Old-timers Club met on May 21 at the Lions' Hall for their general meeting.

President Ruby Tucker welcomed the members and opened in the usual way, with 'O Canada' and the Lord's Prayer.

Roll call was taken by Grace Martin. Minutes were read and approved. Eric Gustafsen gave the treasurer's report.

Social convener, Elsie Palmer, thanked everyone who helped with the recent Mini Bazaar. She announced the chicken dinner would be at the June 18 meeting.

Everyone who went on the bus trip to Ottawa, May 20, had a very enjoyable time.

Another trip was suggested and to be discussed further at the next meeting.

LIBRARY NOTES

In keeping with the season there is a boating and sailing display in the library window.

New fiction includes 'The Furies,' which is the fourth volume in the Kent Family Chronicles and Belva Plain's new bestseller 'Random Winds'.

Western lovers will enjoy Haseloff's 'Ride South'.

Parents please note that June will be busy month at the library for your children.

On Friday, June 6, at 4 p.m., Abra, the Magiclown will be performing at the library.

On Saturday, June 14 at 1 p.m., the Deckhands will put on a puppet show featuring 'The Tale of Peter Rabbit' and 'King Midas and the Golden Touch'.

Admission to both performances is free.

Wallpaper was invented in the early 16th century when someone, probably in Italy, observed that the decorated paper used for book linings might look attractive on the wall.

While his mother looks on, young Shad Ball enjoys 'the pause that refreshes', astride his pony Dixie Lee after they took part in the Sophiasburgh Riding Club Horse Show, Sunday afternoon. Dixie Lee doesn't really need any rest. There was no way that pony would hurry up in the event, despite laughter and calls of encouragement from the judges and the spectators.

Old history encountered on former logging trails

The roads which are travelled are actually old logging roads or trails which once meandered their way through the forest to mines and saw mills.

Our excursion took us to an old steam operated saw mill which had been in operation as recently as 20 years ago.

An interesting phenomenon has taken place in the adjacent lake.

Although the lake is crystal clear, there is not a living thing in it due to the accumulation of more than 12 feet of sawdust.

A BIT OF HISTORY

Another trail passed beside the crumbled remains of a shack horse stable and outhouse.

A few minutes were spent here poking around pieces of artifacts.

'It's nice to find something with a little piece of history,' commented Chris.

Many of the road travelled are marked on topographical maps; others are discovered through word of mouth. And after years of neglect, all become challenges, but the off-roaders are prepared.

Through queries it was learned that the road we were on hadn't seen a motorized vehicle, except snowmobiles, in close to 20 years.

Often the vehicles had to be coaxed through flooded depressions which left the trucks submerged up to the door handles.

Extricating them entailed the use of an electric winch, an indispensable tool attached to the front bumper fitted with a long cable which can be wrapped around a tree, and when pressed into operation, pulls the vehicle free.

'If there is danger of injuring a tree, we wrap a snatch strap around the tree and attach the cable to that,' says Chris. The snatch strap is a long, three-inch wide elastic nylon strap - a glorified rubber band, you might say - which can also be used to directly pull a vehicle out of a situation.

The snatch strap has a tensile strength of 36,000 pounds and when used absorbs the sudden jolt and often subsequent damage which can result from a conventional chain.

Often if the vehicle doing the towing gives the snatch strap a sudden pull, the stuck vehicle will be pulled out of the mud gently as the strap attempts to retract to its normal length.

Even on recognized roads, being prepared is essential, Chris emphasizes.

He feels a snatch strap and electric winch are as essential to the off-roader as a spare tire is to the conventional motorist. And never travel alone in case of mechanical failure or injury.

Disconnection & Reconnection Of Water Services In Deseronto

The Deseronto Public Utilities Commission advises that a labour charge will be initiated immediately for disconnection and reconnection of water services at the street. The charge will be based on the time involved. Overtime rates shall apply for calls after business hours (Minimum $22.32).

Customers should insure that their basement water shut-off is operational and customers without a water shut-off in the home would be advised to have one installed.

Integration has made troops versatile

BY WAYNE COOPER

The unification of Canada's three fighting forces has caused more controversy than the conscription issues of the two world wars.

The debate usually ended up being a farcical show-down between a stubborn government bent on saving money at all costs and a bunch of babbling sentimentalists who were convinced that the sky would fall if Canadians traded in their 'distinctive' uniforms.

Incidentally, these uniforms could only be distinguished from their British counterparts by reading a 'CANADA' camouflage in muted tones on shoulder flashes.

Somewhere between these two ridiculous extremes lies the seldom revealed truth. The Canadian citizen-soldier, who has paid heavily in taxes and may pay even more dearly in lives, was never really part to the facts.

Although unification has, by and large, been a failure, several side effects have improved some aspects of Canadian Forces.

Those too few remaining Canadians in uniform are becoming the world's most versatile and informed professional soldiers.

Integration of Staff Schools, Staff Colleges and most of the training system has exposed all ranks to the crafts, capabilities and problems of their colleagues they support or who are supporting them.

This continual exposure to all three fighting environments has removed the traditional ignorance which tended to breed distrust and hamper cooperation.

BROADER UNDERSTANDING

The broader knowledge and understanding will do more than just reduce the number of

Anglican women meeting June 6

The 13th annual meeting of Anglican Church Women of the Diocese of Ontario will be held Friday, June 6, at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston.

The theme for the 1980 meeting is 'Renew the Church' and the challenge of the Eighties. Principal speaker will be Rev. Michael Harper who will address the meeting during the afternoon session.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. and at 10:30 Dean G.B. Baker, assisted by Canon Gordon Hendra, will celebrate Holy Communion. Bishop Henry Hill will preach.

A short business meeting will be held at 11:30 a.m. with an address by president Miss Constance Fraser and a report from the Board of Parish Services.

Lunch will be from 12:30 to 2:30 and those attending may take their own lunch or eat at one of the many nearby restaurants.

Following the afternoon address by Rev. Harper, tea will be served in St. George's Hall.

Displays will be set up by the Sanctuary unit, the education unit, the supply cupboard and Pakistani embroideries.

All Anglican women are invited to attend. The registration fee is $1.

brawls in the Sergeants' Messes resulting when 'Pongos' use the term 'Pidgeon' to describe anything but a feathered creature nesting on the locally mounted T-33.

When our fighting force is called into action, every individual will be able to do his job better because he has an appreciation of what his comrades are doing and what they are expecting him to do.

Also, in world circles, today's Canadian Forces personnel can converse intelligently with their allies on all aspects of defence. For this, they will be highly respected and, in fact, envied.

If nothing else positive ever results from integration, we can always credit the experiment with producing a top-notch training program for military personnel.

Canada's sailors, soldiers and airmen will still be experts in their trade, but they will have an edge on most of their counterparts around the world. They will be more familiar with all aspects of war than anybody else.

Alternatives to incarceration theme of Conference talk

'Nothing is going to change until the community at large is alerted to the cost, both human and financial, of our current penal system'. This is the conclusion of the Rev. David McCord speaking to the 56th Annual Meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada which met at McArthur Hall, Kingston, from May 22 to 25.

McCord is Executive Director of the Church Council on Justice and Corrections, and for ten years was chaplain to the Cowansville Institution, a federal penitentiary.

'The community is the cradle of crime,' says McCord, and it is the community that has to be alerted to the need for reform, and it is the community that has to become involved in alternatives to incarceration.

The financial costs are horrendous in our present system. $28,000 per year minimum is the cost of keeping a person in our federal penitentiary system.

'How many families here in Kingston are earning that sum in a year?' asked McCord.

stargazing

JUNE

The brightest stars and planets are the first to appear in the evening twilight. This month Venus is brightest — but can only be seen as an evening "star" during the first week. Next in order of brightness are Jupiter, Arcturus, Vega, Capella, Altair, Antares, Mercury, Spica, Mars, Pollux, Deneb, Saturn and Regulus. This list is a bit unusual because it includes five bright planets.

The two brightest stars on the list, Arcturus and Vega can be used to orient the stargazer all summer long. They shift gradually toward the west as the season progresses. Of all the stars they are the 4th and 5th brightest. Arcturus is a lovely golden yellow star, Vega shines like a blue-white diamond. They look different because they are different types of stars.

It is easy to find Arcturus this month. The brightest star in the summer sky it is a distinctive "topaz" colour and high overhead in the early evening. One has only to extend the curve of the handle of the Dipper to verify its identification. Indeed it is probably because of its position in relation to Ursa Major that the star has its name for Arcturus means "watcher of the Bear". Located 36 light years from earth it is one of a class of low density, low temperature "Giant Stars" that are brighter than normal stars of the same spectral type because they are much larger. Arcturus has a diameter about 25 times that of the sun but only about 0003 the solar density and is over 100 times as luminous. The principal star in the kite-shaped constellation Bootes (pronounced Bo-o-tez), it was one of the earliest stars to be named.

Vega, on the other hand, is roughly twice as hot as the sun, is somewhat larger and more massive, less dense and more luminous. Its light takes 26.5 years to reach us. The brightest star in Lyra, a tiny constellation representing the mythological harp invented by Hermes and given to Orpheus by Apollo, Vega has been called the "Harp Star", the "Fallen Vulture" (by ancient Arabs) and probably because of its prominence, the "Arc-light of the Sky".

Vega is of particular interest for a couple of reasons. About 12,000 years ago it was the Pole Star and will once again mark the position in the sky toward which the earth's axis points about the year 14,000 A.D. It is also near the spot in space toward which the sun and solar system are moving — a position referred to as "the Apex of the Sun's Way".

To find your way around the summer sky look first for Arcturus and Vega, then locate the nearby stars and constellations shown on the map.

PLANETS: All five bright planets are in the evening sky early in June. But Venus is about to become a morning "star" — look for it low in the northwest in the evening the first week and low in the northeast in the morning the last week of the month. Mercury will be at its best about mid-June, but it will be very close to Venus on the 1st. The change in the relative positions of the bright planets will be striking for fast-moving Mars is about halfway along a line joining Jupiter and Saturn early in the month, passes Saturn on the 25th, then continues moving away from Jupiter and Saturn during the next few weeks.

Acid rain effects

Fish living in acidic water show a higher level of mercury contamination than fish living in lakes less affected by acidic precipitation, according to a report "The Effects of Water Quality and Morphometric Parameters on Mercury Uptake by Yearling Yellow Perch", just released by Ontario Environment Minister Harry Parrott.

'Ministry scientists have completed a study of one-year old fish in 14 precambrian lakes in Ontario as part of our acid precipitation program. Ontario is spending more than $5 million this year on research into aspects of acid rain,' Dr. Parrott said. 'This specific study is one stage in our long-term research to determine the possible effects of acid rain on human health.'

Depending on the acidity of the lakes studied, mercury residues in the young fish ranged from 0.02 parts per million (ppm) to 0.197 ppm.

These levels of mercury contamination are significantly below fish consumption guideline levels. Normally fish of the size studied are not eaten.

Lakes studied ranged from highly acidic to alkaline with high buffering capacity. Lowest mercury concentrations were found in fish from lakes with high buffering capacity, and in one lake that had been experimentally treated with lime in 1975 and 1976.

Another factor that influenced the mercury uptake of fish was the size of the lake's drainage basin. In lakes of similar acidity higher mercury contaminations were found in fish from lakes with larger drainage basins. In lakes with low acidity and high buffering capacity the sizes of drainage basins did not have any measurable influence on fish mercury concentration.

'The results indicate that acid stress in lakes may be a pre-condition for the faster uptake of mercury by fish,' Dr. Parrott said. 'To further clarify the effect of lake acidity and mercury contamination of fish on human health, we are continuing research on the relationship between mercury contamination of yearlings and of adult sportfish in acid stressed precambrian lakes.'

Baha'i Faith

'The tongue is a smouldering fire and excess of speech a deadly poison. Material fire consumeth the body, whereas the fire of the tongue devoureth both heart and soul. The force of the former lasteth but for a time, whilst the effects of the latter endureth a century.'

'Of all men the most negligent is he that disparteth idly and seeketh to advance himself over his brother. Say, O Brethren! Let deeds, not words be your adorning.'

Try growing your own peanuts this year

If you are looking for something new for your 1980 garden, try growing peanuts. They can be successfully grown in most parts of southern Ontario, but the shorter the growing season the lower the yield.

You can grow peanuts on most fertile, well-drained soils. However, they grow best on sandy to sandy-loam soils. When grown in heavy soils, plants have trouble breaking through the soil, and you may have trouble harvesting the pods.

Although there are four main types of peanuts, only two are recommended for Ontario conditions. These are the Spanish types, the small red-skinned nuts preferred for peanut butter; and the Valencia types, which have three to five peanuts per pod and are usually roasted for sale in the shell. Valencias mature a little earlier than Spanish varieties, so they are usually more productive in Ontario. Virginia and Runner, the two remaining types, can not be grown in Ontario because they require a longer growing period.

Seed houses often sell peanuts in the shell for planting. The whole pod can be planted directly into the soil, but planting the actual seed is usually a more reliable method. When shelling the peanuts for seed, be careful not to tear the skin around the nut. Damaged skin increases the chances of disease, and reduces the chances of sprouting.

Plant peanuts in May, but not before you usually plant peas because they are not as cold hardy. Peanuts can be planted before beans, however, as they are more frost tolerant.

Allow at least 50 centimetres (20 inches) between each row. Seeds should be spaced 10 to 12 centimetres apart (4 to 5 seeds per foot) along the rows. Plant seeds 3 to 5 centimetres (1 and 1/2 inches) deep.

YELLOW FLOWERS

By mid-June, the plants produce yellow flowers. These flowers open in the morning and wither at night; the next day, new flowers appear. Flowers are self-fertilizing, so they do not require bees for fruit set.

A few days after the flowers appear, the flower stalk begins to grow downwards. This stalk, called a peg, penetrates the soil surface and pushes down 5 to 8 centimetres (2 to 3 inches) into the soil. The tip of the peg enlarges and develops into the peanut pod. In 40 to 50 days, the pod will contain mature peanuts.

Although peanut plants are fairly drought resistant, they should be watered during late June and July if the weather is dry.

Plants continue to produce flowers and pegs all season. By mid-September the plant will carry new flowers, new pegs, immature and mature peanuts. The longer the growing season, the greater the number of peanuts on each plant.

The plants should be allowed to develop and mature until harvest in late September or after a heavy frost. If the soil is loose and moist, the peanut plant can be pulled. To make harvesting easier, lift the soil lightly with a fork before pulling. Another method is to cut the tap root about 10 centimetres (4 inches) below the soil surface with a hoe, and then pull the plant gently out of the soil.

Mature pods have a textured appearance; immature pods are smooth. The inside of a mature pod is grey-black, and the peanuts should be reddish skinned.

If the weather is warm and sunny, leave the peanuts in the sun so the soil on the shell can be shaken off easily. Hang the plants in a warm, dry place until the pods are brittle dry. When dry, remove the pods from the plant. Peanuts in the shell can be stored in a dry place indefinitely.

Do not store or dry peanuts

Peanuts are harvested by pulling the entire plant out of the ground. Unlike root crops, peanut plants actually plant their own seeds. Here you can see a healthy crop of Spanish type peanuts.

Guelph offers hobby courses

Three agricultural courses at the University of Guelph's Summer Campus vacation program will appeal to hobbyists and part-time farmers. Apiculture, sheep and goats and horse nutrition are all intensive one-week courses taught by specialists.

Whether the aim is to establish a new farming sideline or simply produce some honey for the family, the apiculture course provides all the basics on the biology of the honey bee, its behaviour and management.

Sheep and goats can be a profitable operation on a small farm. The course is intended for people who have never handled these animals before.

The course on horse nutrition is equally useful for the owner of a single pet mare or the owner of a stable. Designed to enable the horse owner to understand how proper care, management and nutritional requirements affect performance, the course also covers how these factors change during the horse's life cycle.

Since Summer Campus has courses, workshops and recreation for all ages and interest, friends or other family members may accompany agriculturists, but choose to study completely different subjects.

This summer 23 other course for adults are being offered. These include conversational French, calligraphy, solar energy, writing, the nature of disease, flower arranging, personal computing and workshops in applied psychology.

To provide youngsters with a lively combination of fun and learning, the youth program offers many choices. Young science buffs can learn about man, nature or computers. Workshops in acting, journalism and art appeal to more creative types. Sports, games and a daily swim are an integral part of all youth programs.

A community barbecue, family film night and squash and tennis for adults are extra activities.

This year the program runs for two weeks from July 7. Since different courses are offered on each of the weeks, some people attend both sessions.

Course costs begin at $25 for children and $35 for adults. Accommodation varies from camping to living in a residence on campus.

Presbyterial UCW has spring fling

Belleville Presbyterial UCW 'Spring Fling' executive meeting was held recently in Rednersville United Church with over 95 women in attendance.

Mrs. Margaret Thompson, president, opened the meeting by welcoming all and reading a suitable poem.

Rednersville UCW president Mrs. Cairns welcomed those present to their church.

Mrs. Catharine Rozoniak of South Bay UCW led the devotions, using the theme 'Praise' with scriptures, hymns, poems, then closing with prayer.

Margaret's message, based on the purpose of the UCW was illustrated using a large flower, the petals being church, faith, mission, education, stewardship, co-operation, money, and reports with the UCW as the centre. All then repeated the UCW purpose.

Several sing-songs were enjoyed with Olive Wallace as leader and Francis Page as pianist.

During the business, the minutes were accepted as written and reports from the treasurer and corresponding secretary were given.

Mrs. An Elson of Picton, President of Conference UCW, brought greetings and reminded members that first they were UCW unit members before they were Presbyterial and Conference officers.

Schools are at Quin-Mo-Lac on Sept. 5, 6 & 7, and at Perth on Sept. 16, 17, and 18, also a special conference for women, 'Called to Become' at Waterloo on June 20 and 21.

Presbyterial officers were introduced and welcomed with applause. Mrs. Mary Huffman gave a book review and invited all to make use of the display.

Marion Wellbanks reported on Northern Pastoral Regions using maps, snapshots, etc. to explain the attempt to have a more effective ministry in the widely scattered northern congregations.

Della Mae Gray explained about our Live/Love choice. Jeanne Williams, archivist, urged all to keep records about their church and send copies to her at Box 632, Stirling.

The supply and service report was given by Mrs. Jean Storey. Irene Wellman suggested a pamphlet 'Seven Minutes with God' as a daily reminder.

Mrs. Ellenore Barker introduced the new Quin-Mo-Lac leaders: Mr. and Mrs. Birss, who spoke of their plans and hopes for the betterment of the camp. He hoped it would become a year-round camp to be used by all at any time.

The Fall Rally dates were set as follows: Hastings Centre, Oct. 15, at Tweed; Hastings South, Oct. 6, at Westminster United Church; Lennox and Addington, Oct. 8 at Selby; Prince Edward East, Oct. 29 at Demorestville; Prince Edward West, Oct. 1, at Bloomfield.

Mrs. Jeanne Williams thanked the Rednersville UCW for the delicious lunch they served.

The afternoon roll call was by a donation to Quin-Mo-Lac to be used where most needed. Any UCW's may send their donation to treasurer, Mrs. Hazel Wilman, RR 5, Belleville, K8N 4Z5.

Workshops followed with Mrs. Mary Elliot in charge. Jas. Penhale told of the new Resource Centre to be in Hallway St. Church by September. Della Mae Gray told of our Live/Love Project (Japan) and the various resources available. Irene Wellman gave an illustrated talk on Leadership.

Courtesies were given by Francis Page. Regret was expressed that Francis and her husband will be leaving.

Social issues were dealt with by Mrs. Jean Sills. The Worship Workshop was done by Mrs. Joan Bush.

Mary Elliot closed the meeting with prayer.

Julie Anna had already done her stint in the halter class at the Sophiasburgh Riding Club Horse Show on Sunday and was all packed up ready to go home, but she couldn't resist a last look over her shoulder at the activities still going on. She belongs to Terry and Ann Whattam of R.R.2, Picton.

Learn how to handle camping accidents

'While camping is essentially a safe activity, it's more dangerous than it's given credit for. Most bad accidents happen because people don't understand dangers or they take them lightly.'

John Carlisle is a physician and a camping enthusiast who has worked as the doctor at Camp Timberlane near Haliburton for 11 years. He took a St. John Ambulance first aid course while he was still an intern, and says his experiences over the years have reinforced his belief that first aid training should be a requirement at summer camps, and that anyone who is at a cottage, or beach, or out camping might need first aid.

He says the two areas in camp that may produce the most serious injuries are riding and water skiing.

'Because they're high impact. It's like falling off a bus onto a concrete sidewalk.'

The kinds of injuries such a fall would create can be made worse, can even kill, if the injured person is mishandled.

First Aid training teaches when not to move someone, and how to immobilize injuries until medical aid arrives on the scene. St. John Ambulance first aid training also emphasizes safety, preventing the accident to start with.

Safety is one of Dr. Carlisle's themes. He says even when they're volunteers, camp staff and leaders should take their job seriously.

Parents should ask about safety measures, such as an insistence on the use of safety helmets, safety boots, life jackets.

'Trouble arises with ill equipped, inexperienced people. What they don't know can kill. For a leader, camp is never a vacation, he should be thinking all the time. You have to have it drilled into your head what you have to do, what the priorities are.

You shouldn't go tripping without being able to swim or you can't expect to come the bottom of a rapids conscious, if your boat tips.

CONFIDENCE AND SKILL

'First aid has a confidence factor as well as a skill. What it can do for camp leaders is to help make them graphically aware of what can happen.

'For instance, burns can happen on trips. Someone picks up a big pot full of hot soup on a stick and spills the soup down the front of his body. The first thing you do is put him in the lake to get the cool water on his burn.

'But we try to prevent morbidity by emphasizing how sick that's going to make him within 12 hours if that burn is deeper than it looks. You must be prepared, the victim may get sick to his stomach, may go into shock.'

Anyone who is away from camp, even for a short trip, should know the local dangers, should be aware that exposure can kill. They should travel with a map that shows route exits and sources of help.

'Often it's better to leave the patient and bring medical help to him. But you leave someone with him if you can, to wake him up regularly. And you never leave anyone without a canoe, in case of fire.'

PARTICIPATION

The Deseronto Lions Club has been busy getting everything shipshape for its exposition in the Recreation Centre on June 5, 6 & 7. Checking out the 'Over and Under' wheel are: (left to right) Lions Mac MacLean, Harold Unger, Merv Sherman and Ernie Luck. Lion Ernie has been Chairman of the Expo committee since it began five years ago.

Lions plan better-than-ever Expo

By DON LINDSAY

'We've added several new exhibits, a couple of new wrinkles will be evident in the games and the game prizes will be better this year,' said Lion Ernie Luck.

He was speaking of the 1980 version of the Deseronto Lions Club Exposition being held in the Deseronto Recreation Center on June 5, 6 and 7.

'This will be the fifth time the Lions have put on this very popular affair and this year's effort will be our biggest and best yet,' Lion Ernie said.

He has been in charge of this, the biggest single money maker each year for the Lions Club, since its inception five years ago.

The exhibition features the usual games of chance, bingo, food and drink outlets, the always popular fish pond for the little ones and the exhibits of products of local business people have increased this year.

The festivities commence each evening at 7 p.m. and continue until 11 p.m. and the admission is free.

With all this going for it, it would appear that the Lions Expo at the Recreation Center on the last three evenings of the first week in June would be the place to be.

By-law sets benefits for employees

the present status of the by-law.

Some criticism was given about some of the signs advertising Deseronto. These will be repaired.

A short session of council as a whole was held and a by-law was then passed fixing remuneration for employees of the town, excluding the police whose contract is still under negotiation.

A motion was approved to supply extra lighting at Centennial Park, including two 1,500 mercury vapour lights.

Jack Ellis, MP for Prince Edward/Hastings, has been corresponding with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in Ottawa, looking for more information about the operation of the Rural and Native Housing Program in Deseronto.

He has offered to meet with Deseronto Council and bring along a representative from CMHC, sometime in June.

The VEnturers are going to be helping with the clean-up in town over the weekend.

Bill Higgins, chairman of the recreation committee reported that, after investigating comments and opinions expressed in a recent letter to the Quinte Scanner editor, the recreation committee unanimously concurred with the explanations as stated in the reply by the Recreation Director and published in the Scanner on May 22.

He also reported that a swimming instructional program will be held at the Napanee Rotary Pool from July 21 to August 8. Registration will be at the Deseronto Town Hall, Friday, June 6, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Napanee Recreation office the following day. Fees are $8 for one child, $16 for two and $1 for three or more. The Recreation Committee will pay a $4 subsidy fee for each child and provide transportation.

There was a net profit of $430 from the Martin and Downs circus on May 13.

More help at BGH for handicapped

An additional $42,000 has been awarded to Belleville General Hospital to operate the Handicapped Children's Assessment and Treatment Centre for the period April 1, 1980, to March 31, 1981. Health Minister Dennis Timbrell has announced. In future years the funding will be incorporated into their annual budget.

Combined with $50,000 awarded earlier, the grant brings to $92,000 the Ministry's commitment to the centre this coming year.

The centre offers diagnosis, assessment and management of children with physical handicaps resulting from congenital abnormalities. Some of the abnormalities result from cerebral palsy, spina bifida, minimal cerebral dysfunction, or acquired disease resulting from head injuries, meningitis and other illnesses related to the central nervous system.

The centre's staff includes two therapists, a secretary-receptionist, and the half-time services of a social worker and a psychologist, as well as a consulting medical director.

Children are referred to the centre by family doctors, pediatricians, and sometimes by other agencies through the family doctor, for example, a health unit or school.

After the child is assessed by a therapist and the medical director, the appropriate treatment-management plan is devised and implemented. Each child's progress is monitored and reassessed periodically to assure that proper level of treatment and care are maintained.
